'DANZIG ARMED'—CHAMBERLAIN

Declares Free City Set To Oppose Nazi Grab

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain informed the House of Commons today the British government had received reliable reports that "intensive measures of a military character" were taking place in Danzig.

His statement marked the first time a British Cabinet minister had mentioned publicly reports of Danzig activity.

Just before his appearance in the House, Chamberlain, described as usually well-informed quarters as "seriously considering" reinforcing the Cabinet by the inclusion of Winston Churchill, went to Buckingham Palace for an audience with King George VI.

It was not known immediately whether the audience was for the purpose of informing the King of an approaching Cabinet reconstruction or to give him a general outline of the week-end alarms over Danzig—or both.

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 3 (INS)—Additional tanks, guns and ammunition arrived in Danzig between midnight and 4 a. m. today, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Warsaw. They were stored in the Hochstrasse barracks, the message said.

CONFERS WITH KING

Some importance was attached to the fact that the audience lasted a full hour.

The prime minister's statement on Danzig in the House of Commons came in response to a question. He said:

"Reliable reports indicate that intensive measures of a military character are being carried out in the Free City.

"A large and increasing number of German nationals have recently arrived in the Free City, ostensibly as 'tourists' and a local defense corps is being formed under the name of 'Heimwehr.'

"The government are maintaining contact with the Polish and French governments regarding developments in Danzig."

(In Danzig, officials acknowledged Saturday that "precautionary measures" had been taken and black-uniformed Danzig S. S. men were in complete charge of one hill and had partial control of another.

(The police force had been augmented and men appeared wearing on their sleeves little bands with the legend "Heimwehr," which official quarters said indicated they were Danzig S. S. men who had volunteered for police service.

(Danzig officials insisted not a single German "with or without a uniform" was on duty in the free city.

(An Associated Press dispatch from the free city today said there

GANSETT TRACK FACTIONS IN BATTLE OF PROXIES

In a tense atmosphere, the long-standing battle of proxies came to a climax today in the Narragansett track clubhouse—with the directorship of one of America's richest race tracks as the prize.

Under strictest supervision, and with a federal court ruling to be observed, votes of stockholders present at Pawtucket, R. I., and the proxies of others were counted.

On the outcome rested the decision as to whether Judge James E. Dooley, at present in command, or Walter E. O'Hara, founder and former general manager of the track, would control.

WOMEN AT MEETING

More than 100 stockholders were present in the main room of the clubhouse when Judge Dooley banged the gavel to open the meeting at 10 a. m., and among those present were half a dozen women.

There are a total of 350,000 shares of Narragansett stock, and before the polls were open, the O'Hara faction claimed they had sufficient shares to vote O'Hara back in the chair.

More than 75,000 shares on this side were contained in two blocks —35,100 shares owned by the O'Hara family group and approximately 40,000 shares recently purchased by James Connors, former president of Suffolk Downs, and his brother Charles.

The Dooley faction also claimed sufficient strength to win the battle before the voting began, and the Dooley crowd had one edge through last week's ruling by Judge George C. Sweeney in federal court at Boston.

SOME PROXIES BARRED

This ruling was that proxies obtaind by the O'Hara side as a result of a soliciting letter dated June 10 could not be considered.

The Dooleyites contended, and the contention was upheld by the court, that the letter contained misstatements.

First to arrive for the meeting, most momentous since the track was founded, were Judge Dooley, Judge Raymond McMahon, acting as legal adviser to the management group, and Morgan Belmont of New York, one of the Narragansett directors, who was puffing intensely on a pipe.

O'Hara arrived with members of his family and with his counsel, City Solicitor William A. Needham of Providence. They were closely followed by the Connors brothers into the clubhouse where once O'Hara ruled as king.

Judge McMahon read the minutes and said that this was a meeting put over from June 19, because of the court action.

The judge pointed out that under the by-laws all proxies must be guaranteed to be eligible in the balloting. Then a certified list of stockholders was produced.

SAYS COURT MUST RULE

Next Attorney Ernest Cuneo of New York addressed Judge Dooley in the chair, reminding of the proceedings in federal court and stating that the validity of proxies could not be passed upon by the directors at this meeting but that the validity of any proxies questioned must be passed upon by the court under the court order.

Cuneo also reminded that the O'Hara proxies were his property and must be returned.

Judge Dooley then announced that Senator Sigmund W. Fischer of Providence and Attorney John L. Curran of North Providence had been sworn in as inspectors for counting of the ballots and proxies.

Attorney Cuneo requested and was granted the right to name a monitor to observe the inspectors in behalf of O'Hara. Attorney Walter H. Kilbourne of Washington, who has been representing O'Hara in proceedings before the Securities and Exchange Commission, was selected.

Then the ballots and proxies were submitted and the slow, tedious work of checking them was begun.

BULLETIN

Counting of ballots and proxies today in the fight for rule of the Narragansett race track was suddenly halted at noon by a surprise petition filed in superior court at Providence. The petition asked for appointment of "an impartial master" to take charge of counting of the embattled proxies.

Judge Alexander Churchill denied the petition on the ground that jurisdiction was with the federal district court at Boston.

Tobin Child Climbs Into Lap of Royalty

Come summer, come winter, for as long as she lives, Carol Ann Tobin can say that she sat on the lap of Crown Prince Olav, one day to be King of Norway, that her soft, round little face was gently pinched by royal fingers, and that in parting the big Viking stooped way over to hold her hand, and say:

"Bye, bye, Blue Eyes."

Which is by way of reporting that Carol Ann, five-year-old daughter of Mayor Tobin, stole the spotlight this morning in His Royal Highness' series of calls on Governor Saltonstall, Carol Ann's dad, and on others who, officially, were hosts to Her Royal Highness Princess Martha and himself.

SITS ON ROYAL KNEES

Somewhat like a princess herself, Carol Ann received His Royal Highness with the grace and dignity required for such a momentous occasion. While the mayor stood by, with his official staff, she put out a dimpled hand, and, very gravely said

"Hello."

Then, while the prince was signing the guest book, and exchanging amenities with the mayor, she climbed up into a great, leather easy chair.

The prince, without further ado, scooped her up, seated himself, and placed her on his knees—all while Mayor Tobin was signing an official souvenir book for the royal couple.

He, in turn, was presented with a framed and autographed photograph of Olav and Martha, and, after a few more words, the cortege was on its way.

The first call of the day was upon Governor Saltonstall, while Princess Martha waited in Manchester, to join her husband later for a tour of Harvard.

GREETED WITH CHEERS

He arrived at the State House at about 10:20, and was ushered at once into the executive chambers, where the governor waited with Adjt. Gen. Edgar Erickson, and Capt. William S. Fitch. The Prince presented the governor with autographed likenesses of himself and the Princess.

In the royal party were Norwegian Minister to the U. S. William Morgenstiern, Norwegian Consul Bjarne Ursin, Count Wage Brun and Col. John Millikin, of the 1st U. S. Army Corps Area.

State employes cheered the Prince, and a crowd was gathered at the State House door.

Dinghy races on the Charles river at 11 o'clock were next on the prince's program, then a visit through M. I. T. under escort of President Karl T. Compton.

Next stop was Harvard University, to join Princess Martha at the Harvard gate at noontime. After a tour of that famed seat of learning the couple move on to the Country Club in Brookline for a luncheon given in their honor by Bjarne Ursin, Norwegian consul at Boston, and Mrs. Ursin.

Plans called for the couple to leave for Symphony hall for a great public welcome from Bostonians, featured with a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

After the concert, Princess Martha and a retinue of 11 men and women will depart for New York from South Station. Olav was to return to Manchester for a program of yachting on the Fourth of July.

HUB JURIST NAMED IN CONNOLLY QUIZ

Attorney Frank J. Burke, special justice in municipal court, and William C. Creed of Potosi street, Dorchester, an assistant clerk in the Connolly office, were named today as others who coerced employes of John Patrick Connolly, clerk of superior civil court, to pay money to hold their jobs.

The naming came in the Boston Bar Association's filing of answers to interrogatories propounded by Connolly in connection with supreme court ouster sproceeding against him.

Previously the Bar Association had named John J. McCarthy of Bowdoin street, Winthrop, an attorney and chief clerk in the Connolly office, and William T. Conway of Stanton street, Dorchester, as conspiring with Connolly to coerce money from employes.

The interrogatory answers were filed in Supreme Court by Arthur J. Santry and Reuben L. Lurie, counsel for the Bar Association in the ouster attempt.

In answer to a question put by Connolly, asking identification of those allegedly unfit, but who were hired by Connolly after taking office, the Bar Association replies:

"All of the persons hired by the respondent were unfit for their positions when so hired."

On the other hand, the Bar Association, answering another question, asserted all the persons discharged by Connolly, allegedly because they would not pay money tribute, were "faithful."

BONFIRES USHER IN HUB'S FOURTH

Greater Boston was ready today for celebration of its 163rd Indpendence Day to be ushered in with bonfires at midnight and continue tomorrow with parades, concerts, sports programs and fireworks displays.

Mayor Tobin will touch off Boston's bonfire at Smith Field, Brighton, as the clock strikes 12, while officials in a score of other nearby towns and cities will officiate similarly.

After a flag-raising at City Hall tomorrow at 9 a. m., paraders will march to the Common for patriotic exercises and then continue on to the Old State House, there to hear 10-year-old Herbert O. Clarke read the Declaration of Independence.

The marchers will continue to Faneuil Hall to hear an address by Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion. These exercises have been held continuously ever since 1783.

A municipal athletic meet will be held at Franklin Field at 10 a. m. tomorrow, and all-day neighborhood programs are scheduled in 25 sections of the city. An estimated 50,000 will see the community festival at the Frog Pond, Boston Common, from 8 to 10 p. m.

This will include historical tableaux, band and choral music and dancing. Fireworks will follow at the athletic field at 10:30 p. m.

Dorchester Ward 14 will stage a baby carriage and doll carriage parade at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow on the promenade. Guest speakers at night will include Mayor Tobin and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles.

Ice cream will be distributed to children of South Boston, Roxbury and many other sections of the city. Mayor Tobin will start the South Boston fireworks display tomorrow night. Roxbury will have free entertainment and sports for children at the Jefferson playground at 10 a. m. Baseball games at 3 p. m. and a firework display at 10 at Jamaica pond will conclude the celebration.

United States Senator David I. Walsh will address exercises near Abington's American Legion building, where the bonfire will be burned. The James J. Mansfield post, American Legion, will sponsor Concord's community celebration at the Emerson playground tomorrow night.

Quincy's program tomorrow will open with a parade of horribles at 8 a. m. and close with fireworks at 10 p. m.

Salem expects a crowd of 50,000 tonight to witness the burning, on Gallows hill, of a 100-foot bonfire erected by the Alpine Club and the American Legion post. Fireworks, vaudeville and other features will precede the big blaze.

The Milton American Legion post will sponsor that town's celebration. Children's games will take place at 9 a. m., at which time a town tennis tournament will commence at the Brook road playground. Afternoon sports at Brook road will be followed at night by the band concert and fireworks.

Cambridge will have no official observance tomorrow, but the Fort Washington Quoit Club will serve free ice cream to children and hold a baseball game and other sports at Fort Washington park.

Husky Hubby's Hug Snaps Wife's Love

SALEM, July 3—What started out to be an embrace, nearly floored her with its intensity, according to Mrs. Dorothy Perkins of Middleton who presented an uncontested plea for a divorce today to Judge John V. Phelan.

DAY OF FREEDOM—Charging her WPA-wrestler hubend, Carmen Carone, tried out his wrestling holds on her, Josephine Carone of Beverly appears in Salem court and asks a divorce.

The bearlike caress, she told the court, was given her by her estranged husband, Clifford.

"I was going to the movies with my mother one night," said Mrs. Perkins. "My husband came up to me as if to kiss me. Instead he squeezed me so tightly I almost fell to the floor."

Aside from that he insisted on "being his own boss," although it didn't pay very well. And he pulled her hair on another occasion, while one day last winter he pushed her up against the stove, and bruised her.

She wants, she said, no alimony, nor even support for their child, Arthur Warren, 2, whose custody she demanded. Her petition was taken under advisement.

At 17 Mrs. Dorothy Stocker, another in the cavalcade of unhappy wives, knows about marriage, and is learning about divorces. Her trouble, she told Judge Phelan, started one cold morning a month after marrying Fred A. Stocker, of Lynn, last November, when she wouldn't get up first to start the fire. Fred didn't like it, and hit her.

CALLED FOR DAD

A month after that he knocked her down, and choked her. Last March 22 she telephoned to her dad to come and take her home.

Mrs. Josephine Carone, of Beverly, is, she said, married to a wrestler. Carmen Carone, who huffs and puffs twice a week in addition to his duties with the WPA. Carmen, she says, weighs 190. She weighs 110. She didn't like it when he tried out his wrestling holds on her.

John Alden Lambert, of Newburyport, informed the court that a baby recently born to Mrs. Yvonne Lambert, his wife, is not his—adding that she admits it. Decree granted.

ACCENT ON YOUTH—Dorothy Stocker, 17, appears in Salem court to ask divorce from Fred A. Stocker of Lynn after five months of marriage. First row came over who'd start fire on a cold morning, she said.

Malden Vet Dies in Creek

William McInnis, 52-year-old Malden World War veteran, was found drowned today in three inches of water.

His body lay face down in Saugus Branch creek, off Ferry street, Malden.

Assistant Medical Examiner Andrew D. Guthrie said McInnis apparently fell from an improvised footbridge across the creek, landing stunned with his face in the water.

Accidental drowning was Dr. Guthrie's official finding in the death.

BACK BAY HUNT ON FOR 'MAD MASHER'

An automobile number, jotted down by a cool-headed young woman even as she was being threatened by an accoster, was being used by Back Bay police today to aid in their search for a man who has frightened girls and women in exclusive streets of Boston for several weeks.

The accoster, of swarthy complexion and rough voice, has terrified women late at night by driving up to them as they walked home, ordering them into his car, police said.

Latest to be threatened was Mrs. Ruth Trost, 28, of Beacon street, an attractive beautician whom the masher tried to stop as she was walking along Boylston street.

He offered her a ride, then became abusive and cursed when she refused. He jumped from the car and approached her, shouting:

"Don't try to give me the slip! I'll break your jaw if you do!"

Mrs. Trost screamed for help and a taxi driver ran to her assistance from the corner of Boylston and Arlington streets. The accoster drove off but Mrs. Trost took his number as he fled.

Police said they have traced ownership of the auto to a Quincy woman.

It was reported that similar incidents have occurred frequently during recent weeks in the vicinity of the Public Garden and Fenway, Back Bay.

IDENTIFY PAROLEE IN HOLDUP

Allegedly trapped in a fake alibi, a paroled state prison convict was identified today as "the man with the gun" in three recent Greater Boston holdups.

A Charlestown rent collector, robbed of $20 in an encounter in which he tussled with one of a bandit pair, picked the ex-felon suspect out of a police headquarters lineup.

Scratches on the suspect's face supported the identification. The accused man said he suffered the scratches when he "ran into a tree" while playing baseball on Boston Common.

ALIBI CHALLENGED

"If you'd ever played ball on the Common, you'd know there aren't any trees inside the fence around the diamond," the suspect was challenged by police.

Police said he would be arraigned in Charlestown court Wednesday on charges growing out of the robbery of the rent collector.

The victim, Henry T. Andrews of Walnut street Newtonville, was slugged in the holdup, but saved $400 he had hidden in an inner pocket. A shot was fired in the struggle and the gunman dropped a pistol clip.

A box of foreign-made cartridges matching those in the clip was found in the Malden lodgings of an alleged pal of the suspect, according to police.

"PAL" ALSO HELD

The "pal" was also held today after he had allegedly been identified as a participant in at least one of the robberies under investigation.

These included two store holdups, one in Broadway, Somerville, the other in Buckman street, Everett.

Both victims picked the paroled convict out of the lineup as the gunman who threatened them.

Held in $20,000 as Kidnap-Bandit

Arrested after two holdup victims allegedly pointed him out at Revere Beach, Marino Lepore, 20, of Mountain avenue, Revere, was held in $20,000 today in Chelsea district court on two charges of armed robbery.

Police said he was "positively identified" as one of three bandits who stole a Lynn man's auto in Revere after threatening the owner with a gun, then robbed a drug store at Carey avenue and Broadway, Chelsea.

The Lynn autoist, Eugene Martell, 30, was forced into his car, at gunpoint, at Ocean avenue, Revere Beach, and was driven to North Revere, where he was dumped out beside the highway. The bandits next entered the drugstore of Joseph Pearlstein, in Chelsea, drew guns and robbed Pearlstein and two other men.

15 DEAD ALREADY IN 4TH CASUALTIES

With the holiday still a day away, New England counted 15 persons dead today in casualties of the Fourth of July period.

Eleven deaths were caused by motor crashes and drowning accidents and Mrs. Sarah Otis of West Medford was burned to death in Quincy. Latest to die in week-end mishaps were:

Chaisson, Romeo, 6, of Lewiston, Me. Drowned in Lewiston.

Conley, Roger E., 33, of Portland, Me. Killed in auto accident.

Gillis, John H., 55, of Rumford, Me. Struck by truck in Rumford.

Wheeler, John, 43, of North Haverhill, N. H. Killed in West Lebanon, N. H., car crash.

Emily Galant, 23, and Ann Duckworth, 24, both of Providence, R. I., were taken to Rhode Island Hospital in critical condition following a smashup in Cranston, R. I.

Miss Emma Schroder, 20, of High street, East Dedham, injured in the crash which claimed the life of John E. Hatch, 26, of Dedham, was on the danger list at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Near death with a fractured skull Miss Yvette Peche of Lowell is in St. John's Hospital, Lowell, where she was taken after a head-on collision cost the life of Michael J. Tesky, 22, of Lawrence.

211 Killed in U. S. Pre-Holiday Accidents

By the Associated Press

The nation's celebration of Independence Day, a holiday interval which began Saturday in many localities, already has cost at least 211 lives with more than half of them taken in traffic accidents.

Last year the total reported for the three-day weekend was 556 from all causes and the year before that, 563.

Automobile and motorcycle accidents claimed 110 lives, and 64 persons were drowned.

Danzig Worth War, British Press Says

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—With conspicuous unanimity the British press has launched broadsides to convince public opinion at home—and in Germany—that Danzig is worth a war and involves a vital issue both to Poland and the British empire.

At the same time some sections of the press attributed strong rumors of a projected Nazi coup in the free city during the past week-end to a German attempt to test British and French firmness in what was called "a war of nerves."

There was a speculation whether the British-French barrage of warnings had any effect in postponing or averting a crisis over Danzig.

But memory of the situation in May, 1938, four months before the Czecho-Slovak crisis, dampened any feeling of optimism in British circles.

At that time rumors swept Europe that Germany planned a swift coup to bring the Sudetenland into the Reich. Britain and France responded with military precautions and warnings. The result encouraged feeling in some quarters that Hitler had been "frightened off."

Yet the crisis came later, in September, and the Munich conference enabled Hitler to achieve dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia.

That dismemberment formed the keynote of today's explanations of why Danzig is so vital alike to Poland and Britain.

The similarity of all these explanations indicated they were a part of a British preparedness campaign.

The public was told that Hitler was not interested in Danzig merely because it was a German city but for strategic reasons. He wants it, the British press said with one voice, because it would give him a stranglehold on Poland and enable him to dismember that country the same way he broke up Czecho-Slovakia.

The fate of the latter republic was pointed to as proof that Hitler's claims of "self-determination" for the Sudetenland were used only as means to an end.

As for Danzig, British writers recalled the words of Frederick the Great, that whoever holds the mouth of the Vistula river is more a master of Poland than her own government.

Danzig Ready to Mobilize Its Labor Forces

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 3 (AP)—Danzig took measures today for mobilization of its workers for labor "vital to the state" in case of emergency growing out of the sharpened Polish-German differences over the Free City and Pomorze (the Polish corridor).

An order to be published by the Senate this afternoon provided that workers may be recruited for industries which the Senate holds to be essential for the welfare of the community.

It explained that such industries as shipbuilding, which faced a shortage of labor, might benefit by the order.

Japs, Soviets In Hand to Hand Battle

HSINKING, Manchoukuo, July 3 (AP) — Japanese army communiques today reported the capture of a strongly-fortified Soviet-outer-Mongolian position atop a strategic hill along the Khalka river after a heavy battle on the Manchoukuo-Mongolia frontier.

Reports from the Kwantung garrison, said the attackers battled to the summit of the hill in the face of raking machinge-gun fire and then locked in hand-to-hand fighting until the position was cleared.

They said airplanes were active on both sides, both for bombing and reconnoitering.

were no signs of new developments of a military nature.)

Meanwhile, official circles said Britain would make clear to Germany this week her agreement with Poland and France that any attempt to bring Danzig into the Reich would be resisted by force.

Before going to the palace the prime minister had a 40-minute visit with Sir Howard William Kennard, British ambassador to Warsaw, who returned to London last Friday with the latest information on Poland's position regarding Danzig.

It was disclosed that Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, would arrive in London by airplane tomorrow from his post.

It also was disclosed that a report had been received from Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, on his conversations with Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff regarding the proposed British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.

The foreign office's only comment was that "progress has been made" and it was said further talks in the Russian capital were expected in a day or two.

The proposed warning to Germany, official circles said, would underscore warnings given in recent speeches and would apply to any Nazi putsch within the Free City, as well as to an attack from outside.

France and Poland were said already to have informed Germany of their similar stand.

JERUSALEM, July 3 (AP)—Five hundred Jews from Danzig arrived at Haifa today in a ship they had bought and manned themselves, but they had no entry papers and all were detained. The ship flew the blue and white Zionist flag.

Danzig Nazis 'Set,' Wait Hitler's Word

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 3 (INS)—The Germans of Danzig are ready to make "even the extreme sacrifice of their lives" to bring this vital Baltic seaport back into the Reich, Nazi District Leader Albert Foerster, declared in a fighting speech.

Addressing thousands of cheering followers assembled for a party celebration, the "Danzig Fuehrer" defiantly warned Warsaw that the Polish troops massed around the Free City will not prevent Danzigers from obeying any command Adolf Hitler chooses to give.

Lustily cheered by his audience, Foerster announced:

"The people of Danzig are united to the man in their wish to return to the Reich. Danzig will go back. The people are prepared to make any sacrifice to this end, even the extreme sacrifice of their lives.

"One word of the Fuehrer's bears ten thousand times more weight with us in Danzig than all the war cries and lying provocations from the rest of the world put together.

"In Danzig no one need let himself be disturbed. No menaces from Poland can frighten Danzig."

Foerster, in the most important pronouncement of his meteoric career, made it clear that Danzig's Nazis await only Hitler's word to go into action.

Since it is known that Foerster is Berlin's chief representative in the Danzig zone, his strong words appeared to many to foreshadow some early decisive move by Chancellor Hitler for satisfaction of his standing demand that the Free City rejoin Germany.

There was a growing belief that the Nazi-controlled Danzig Senate may shortly convene and adopt a resolution proclaiming the city's "anschluss" (reunion) with the Reich on the basis of "self-determination."

It would then be up to Poland to make the next move and risk counter-action by German troops on the theory that the Poles were committing aggression.

This procedure seems to be generally accepted as the one Berlin and Danzig's Nazi party have decided to pursue.

F. D. R. KEEPS HAND ON CRISIS IN EUROPE

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 3—As war sparks shot closer to the European tinder box today, President Roosevelt kept transatlantic wires open to American chancelleries in London and Paris. From Washington the State Department gave Hyde Park intermittent bulletins on the critical situation.

The President's uphill battle with Congress over neutrality revision and monetary control was temporarily forgotten as the executive sought to ascertain whether Germany was on the verge of a provocation coup in the free city of Danzig.

Mr. Roosevelt was spending the Fourth of July holidays with his 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who is sailing for Europe despite persistent threats of war.

The President spent part of the day in the study of his Hudson river family home, checking developments abroad and in the domestic political arena.

Shortly after his arrival here Sunday morning, the President announced completion of another step in America's national defence program through signature of an emergency act which will add 2290 planes to the army's fighting forces immediately and produce a total of 5500 planes by July 1, 1941. This measure also carried $27,000,000 for strengthening of the Panama Canal defenses.

The President was scheduled to leave Hyde Park at midnight tomorrow. This will put him back in Washington in advance of the Senate's agreed vote on extending his powers to devalue the dollar.

HITLER BREAKS REST FOR BALKAN PARLEY

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—Adolf Hitler suddenly headed back to Berlin today to bulwark Germany's policy of making friends in the Balkans during the three-day state visit of the Bulgarian prime minister, George Kiosseivanoff, starting Wednesday.

The Fuehrer's return to the capital was the first since June 7, when he moved his headquarters to Berchtesgaden for the summer. Hitler attended a funeral yesterday in Hamburg.

His return marked a change in the original plan for receiving the Bulgarian premier and indicated the importance German leaders attached to his visit.

At first Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop was expected to do all the entertaining while the Fuehrer remained in southern Germany.

The chancellor will receive the Bulgarian premier shortly after he arrives and Wednesday night will give a dinner for him at his residence.

A Nazi said the Bulgarian's visit was regarded as "an indication that more and more it is being recognized that political hopes—not to mention economic ones—can only be realized through collaboration with Germany."

Australia Backs Britain to Limit

SYDNEY, Australia, July 3 (AP)—Premier Robert Gordon Menzies in one of the most forthright speeches by an Australian statesman since 1914 declared Australia stood with Britain "to the last man and shilling even if it means war."

Duce Asks Parley With Pope Pius

LONDON, July 3 (INS)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome today reported that Premier Mussolini last night sought to obtain an interview with Pope Pius.

There was no indication regarding import of the conversation, the dispatch said.

HARVARD ANALYSES SKY BLAST

Harvard University scientists, reading reports of an apparent exploding meteor heard over the Pacific northwest yesterday, said today it was "highly probable something fell to earth" but that a year might elapse before it was found.

They doubted the celestial visitor burst at 5000 feet, as suggested by some witnesses, and said instead it more likely exploded 15 to 20 miles up.

HEARD 70 KILOMETERS AWAY

The noise of other exploding meteors has been heard 60 to 70 kilometers away, they said, but that the fact the Portland blast was heard 125 miles from the location given by witnesses, was unusual. That distance would be roughly equivalent to 200 kilometers.

The Harvard scientist explained that between 1000 and 10,000 solid particles weighing half a pound or more hit the earth each year.

One of the best known was a meteor that struck in north central Siberia June 30, 1908, with a terrific blast, compressing air in front of it that blew down trees for 15 or 20 miles around. Another, thousands of years ago, cut a crater three-quarters of a mile wide in Arizona.

A meteor which did not strike the earth was heard over southern Vermont and central Massachusetts on May 26, 1935. It burst some 15½ miles in the air and to the North of Ware, Mass., according to the best reports, and the sound was heard over a wide radius. Harvard collected 167 reports on the occurrence.

The Harvard scientists said that when meteors burst with a thunderous noise they usually were at least 15 to 20 miles above the earth. In one instance, however, a meteor was determined to have burst at an altitude of four miles above Iowa in the 1880's.

Steal Three Shotguns But Overlook Shells

Thieves stole three 12-gauge, double-barrelled shotguns from the offices of the American Cord and Twine Co., Fulda street, Roxbury, over the week-end, but missed a box of shells behind the safe.

Henry Buhler, president of the company, in reporting the theft, told police the thieves obtained entrance to the offices by way of a fire escape, forcing two screens. They took nothing else, nor did they disturb the safe.

ME. LEGION MEET ENDS

BANGOR, Me., July 3—Maine legionnaires today were homeward-bound on completion of their 21st annual convention, the most successful in the history of the State American Legion. A parade of 4000 veterans was reviewed by Gov. Lewis O. Barrows.

State Cop Pays $2 Tunnel Toll for Royal Guest

There is nothing in the charter under which the Sumner tunnel operates to provide for the reception of royal guests.

So, when Crown Prince Olav of Norway, and his entourage "hit the tunnel" on the way in from Manchester this morning, there was a little fumbling among officials.

State Police Lieutenant William Shinkis solved the dilemma by digging down into his jeans and forking over the money for the toll—$2.

PARTICIPANTS in Sudbury's 300th anniversary were, left to right, Harold Hicks, Rachel Cone, John Hicks and Marcice Hicks. Town residents were "drummed to church," just as they were three centuries ago. Also expected to join the tercentenary rites are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, who will arrive in Sudbury today.

Asks Peace On Behalf Of Mothers

Special to Boston American

LOS ANGELES, July 3—"For the sake of the other mothers of America, the Gold Star mothers want this country to stay out of foreign wars."

National president of the Women Who Gave Their Sons in the World War, Mrs. G. W. Williams of New Bedford, Mass., today urged watchfulness against any trend that might lead the United States into war overseas.

Pending in Congress now is the Bloom "anti-neutrality" bill which, despite House amendments, and warnings by patriotic organizations and citizens, contains dangerous loopholes through which this nation might be drawn into disputes between foreign nations.

Mrs. Williams, in California to visit local chapters of the Gold Star Mothers, said:

"No Gold Star Mother wants any other mother to go through what we went through when our boys sailed overseas and did not come back.

"Individually and as an organization, we are loyal to our country. I believe that every Gold Star Mother would be willing to give her life to protect America and equally ready to give her all to save the boys who are still living from being sent into a war overseas.

"We love America, and want her to be safe, happy and free from the war clouds that threaten so much of the world."

Girl Saves Youth From Drowning

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 3—Compelled to dive twice, 18-year-old Diane Rosenbloom saved her escort, 21-year-old escort, Ferdinand Sous., from drowning in the Piscataqua River here. She lives in Laurel street, he in Dubuque street. They were swimming.

CHUM REVEALS DOWNING

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—A two-day-old mystery of the disappearance of eight-year-old Robert Fanning was cleared when a playmate, Frank Rogers, eight, tearfully told police the missing boy had slipped and fallen into the barge canal.

REBELLION GROWS OVER NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The administration's neutrality and lending programs held the key today to Congressional adjournment, with every indication of fresh rebellions over both issues.

Most legislators are out of the capital over the Independence Day recess, but those still at their desks predicted that President Roosevelt would tell his lieutenants this week whether they should try to force through those two controversial measures or let the session end in mid-July.

Leaders were reconsidering their strategy in view of the House refusal to repeal the existing arms embargo and the Republican speech-making coup in the Senate which prevented immediate extension of the President's monetary powers. The Senate will vote Wednesday on the monetary bill.

Most anti-Administration senators contended it would be futile for their chamber to take up the neutrality question. The House bill, rewritten to retain most of the present embargo provision, aroused far greater opposition than leaders had expected.

They agreed that Senate debate not only would extend into August but would be the most fiery of any since the League of Nations fight after the World War.

Legislation to provide for the President's $3,860,000,000 lending program probably will not be ready for another week, but Republicans already have indicated that they will fight its enactment as strongly as they opposed continuation of his power to devalue the dollar.

The program has received particular criticism from some members of both parties on one score—extension of $500,000,000 in loans to foreign countries for development of American commerce.

Representative Martin (R.) of Massachusetts, the minority leader in the House, said at Springfield, Mo., Saturday night that the program was "only a scheme to prime the 1940 elections."

Although adjournment-minded legislators were interested primarily in learning what the administration wanted to do next, leaders in the Senate centered their efforts on obtaining approval of the monetary legislation.

DEMPSEY WINS FIGHT FOR LIFE

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, whose serious illness revealed he still can stir the nation's emotions just as he did years ago with his flailing fists, apparently has won his bout with appendicitis and peritonitis.

The battle appeared to be over as definitely as his famous scrap with Luis Angel Firpo. His wife, the former Hannah Williams, reported his temperature had returned to normal while Jack himself began to make plans for his convalescence.

The hospital issued its last bulletin on his condition this morning, reporting he was "very comfortable" and Dr. R. E. Brennan, who performed the emergency appendicitis operation last Thursday night, left the hospital this morning to play golf.

A Polyclinic Hospital attache announced "It looks like everything is going to be fine."

"His condition is very good," the attache said after Dempsey's physician examined the patient. "He is still improving."

In fact, everything appeared normal except telephone service at the hospital and at local newspapers, where the switchboards still were swamped with calls asking the ex-champion's condition.

The Manassa Mauler has received more than 10,000 phone calls, telegrams, cards, flowers and messages since Thursday. One newspaper reported 1000 calls Friday afternoon while the others all reported, "the rush of calls was terrific."

Meanwhile Dempsey, through his personal representative, Ned Brown, revealed he had thought he "was a goner" after the operation.

"It had me going for a while in the early rounds," he said. "I thought sure I was a goner. It was the first time I've been cut without being paid for it."

W. R. Hearst Lauds Art at Coast Fair

Special to Boston Evening American

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3—Paradox though it seems, William Randolph Hearst today found himself both extremely delighted and extremely dismayed by the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Delighted because the exposition's "amazing" art show is the greatest and most wonderful collection of art objects he has ever seen assembled in a lifetime of art appreciation.

And dismayed because of the terrifying risk of irreparable damage involved in the transportation of these objects from the world's art centers to Treasure Island — and back again at Fair's end.

On both subjects Mr. Hearst was voluble today at a Nob Hill hotel where he is host to a party of 12 who came here from the South and East to visit the exposition as guests of the publisher.

PARTY VIEWS FAIR

In the party with Mr. Hearst were Jack Malloy, supervising editor of the Hearst newspapers; William Griffin, publisher of the New York Enquirer, with his wife and two children; Miss Marion Davies; Mrs. John Considine, the former Carmen Pantages; Lloyd Pantages; Geoffrey Konta, New York attorney; Constance Talmadge, and Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Walsh.

The entire party, with Herbert Fleishhacker, visited Treasure Island Saturday, saw the Folies Bergere, toured Gayway, dined at the Yerba Buena Club—and were enthralled at the art exhibit.

"If—and I say 'if' advisedly—there wasn't anything else at all on Treasure Island," said Mr. Hearst, "then the art show would still be sufficient to warrant visits aplenty.

"That show is utterly amazing. I think it is the first time that any assembly of art objects of that magnitude has ever occurred—and I think, and sincerely hope, that it will be the last time anything of the kind will occur.

RISK IS TOO GREAT

"It is a wonderful thing San Francisco's gotten, but it's outrageous to let any other fair ever have it. I don't think art objects, which mean so much to the whole of humanity, should be shipped around like that, even with every thinkable safeguard.

"The possibility of irretrievable loss is too vast to risk. Look at what might have happened when the liner Paris burned at Le Havre, not so long ago.

"But for a matter of a few hours, some utterly priceless and irreplaceable art objects would have been inside her storerooms, to be destroyed by the blaze.

"I know that every possible safeguard is placed around the exhibits of Treasure Island. But at the same time, that does not remove the tremendous risk that is inevitably involved in their transportation.

"And I do.'t think that ever again will such priceless objects be transported. It would take travel and visits to many nations to ever again see all this exhibit in one lifetime.

ALL SHOULD SEE ART

"It's obvious that everybody should take advantage of this unique opportunity to see what can never again be seen.

The rest of the fair is delightful, too, said Mr. Hearst. He enjoyed it, hugely, he said—

"But I can't seem to say enough about that art exhibit. I could talk about it endlessly."

Aiken Dedicates Vt. Exhibit at N. Y. Fair

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Governor D. Aiken of Vermont dedicated his state's exhibit at the New York World's Fair with the assertion that "we don't believe in building a world of tomorrow on a foundation of debt."

"We have steadfastly refused to delegate the authority and responsibility for our personal and local affairs to an all-powerful central government," he said.

DR. SMITH TO FIGHT CHARGES

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 3 (AP)—Dr. James Monroe Smith, former Louisiana State University president, said today he was ready to "fight" an indictment charging him with embezzling $100,000 of the university's funds.

Breaking a silence which he has maintained since his surrender here Saturday night, Dr. Smith declared he was "innocent of any wrongdoing."

"I am going back," Dr. Smith said, "to straighten up this affair—or to assist in straightening up the affair."

Dr. Smith spoke in the hotel room where he has been under guard for two nights and a day after surrendering to police. He spoke shortly before the scheduled arrival of Louisiana police officers who flew north to take him back to face the embezzlement charges.

His wife, who is charged with "harboring" and "assisting" him, remained secluded in an adjoining room during the interview.

Dr. Smith said he was anxious to return to Baton Rouge as soon as possible. He said he had had no knowledge of the charges against him until he read of his indictment in a Toronto newspaper Saturday.

Dr. Smith's income and financial affairs became the object of federal scrutiny with arrival from Boston of three agents of the intelligence unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The agents declined comment except to say they were investigating Dr. Smith's financial affairs. They spent part of the day conferring with him and with James N. Nicholson, federal bureau of investigation agent who arrived here yesterday.

CUSHING IN PLEDGE TO PARISH

The Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing today buried himself with the many duties of his pastorate at Sacred Heart Church, Newton, after pledging at all Sunday masses to continue the traditions left the parish by his predecessor, Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York.

"Only in the God who made us can we find the solution of our own problems and of the world's perplexities," the newly consecrated Auxiliary Bishop declared to his new parishioners.

In his opening message, he indicated that, like the prelate he succeeded, he will have a major interest in the young of the parish, declaring:

"Your little children already know me through their interest in the missions. It will be one of my greatest joys to have them know me in the future in a more personal way."

NOTED AS ORATOR

Bishop Cushing, consecrated by Cardinal O'Connell with impressive ceremonies at the Cathedral last Thursday, spoke to his new parishioners at all masses, including the 7 o'clock mass which he personally celebrated. At each of the services the edifice was crowded with parishioners, eager to see and to hear their new pastor, noted for his eloquence as an orator.

"For years I have been speaking in behalf of struggling missionaries in every corner of the world," he told them. "This morning, however, I must speak in behalf of myself.

"I am profoundly grateful to His Eminence, the Cardinal, for appointing me pastor of the Sacred Heart Parish. I do not come to you as a stranger. On two former occasions I have spoken here as a representative of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

"On assuming his new duties as Archbishop of New York, His Excellency, Archbishop Spellman left to his successor a model parish, free of debt, well equipped materially and well organized spiritually.

PRIMARY AIM

"My one desire is to continue the good traditions and, if possible, to give added glory to God by bringing you a little nearer to His Adorable Heart. That is the primary aim of every priest.

"In the past, all my efforts have been given to the world-wide extension of God's Kingdom. But now, without ever forgetting the struggling priests and sisters of the missions, it is my first responsibility and happy privilege to pray and work especially for the spiritual welfare of the devoted people in this particular portion of the Lord's vineyard.

"Supported by the other priests, by the self-sacrificing sisters, by your own faithful cooperation and by the all-powerful aid from Heaven, we still confidently continue God's work in your midst to the end that we will all become living examples of the teachings that Christ the Lord bequeathed to the world."

CHANGE BAD FEET TO BETTER FEET—OVERNIGHT

"Oil your feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march. So was a clever man. Stop aching, burning feet probably cause more misery—more distress—more bad temper and cursing than most other human ailments.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

Rub them before going to bed and next morning you will probably awake happy—walk more joyfully to work—like "Oil your feet."

PONTOONS START FOR SQUALUS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 3 (AP)—Tugs left the Portsmouth navy yard today with the seven huge pontoons with which the submarine Squalus, still holding the bodies of 26 of her crew, will be lifted from the ocean floor, where she has rested in 240 feet of water since a faulty dive May 23.

The pontoons will be moored in the lower harbor, where they will be more accessable than at the navy yard, until those in charge of salvage operations 15 miles off Portsmouth call for them.

Five of the pontoons will be employed to lift the flooded after section of the undersea craft, in which the 26 men perished, and two will be used to lift the buoyant forward section, from which 33 of their more fortunate shipmates were rescued with a diving bell.

Salvage work, which has proceeded every day weather has permitted will be continued over the holiday.

McGlue Pays $1000 Tax Fine

In compliance with the court sentence, a check for $1000 was received today by the federal court clerk, representing the $1000 fine imposed upon Charles H. McGlue, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, for failure to file an income tax return for 1935.

McGlue, who changed his plea to guilty part way through his trial, also was given a suspended six months' sentence, with the condition that he pay the tax and any penalties imposed. He was alleged to have had an income of $34,909 in that year.

He was given until today to pay the tax and penalties, but inasmuch as the income tax division was on a holiday, it could not be learned if this had been done.

GIRL, 13, ACCUSES 2

ROCHESTER, N. H., July 3—Police today organized a search for two young men who attacked 13-year-old Jerolene Howard in her home in Dry Hill road.

Aged Suspect Scorns 'Killer'

LOS ANGELES, July 3 (AP)—A youth accused of killing his mother and an elderly man held in the slaying of his wife and a son faced each other in jail.

"I don't want to sit beside that—tha' murderer," cried Albert Singer, 67, cringing and trembling as he looked at Campbell McDonald, 25. Police said McDonald has admitted he killed his former actress-mother, Margaret Campbell, with a hammer.

Singer kept repeating over and over that he himself is "crazy," unable to remember the killing of his wife and son. Police Capt. DuBalton R. Patton does not share the view, although he expressed belief McDonald is insane.

CHIEF HAS BUSY START

Chief William A. Floyd took over his new duties as head of the Winthrop fire department by directing his men in quelling a $3000 fire in a three-story wooden dwelling in Woodside ave.

Air Talker Sued By Paul Waner

Paul G. Waner, Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder, filed suit through counsel today in Norfolk and Suffolk county superior courts, seeking damages of $50,000 from John J. Stevens, radio commentator, for remarks on a May 1 broadcast over a chain of New England radio stations.

The suit was based on the allegation that the broadcast falsely criticized his playing as a member of the Pittsburgh baseball team, had injured his reputation and had exposed him to "public hatred, contempt and ridicule."

The action was entered in Norfolk court because Stevens' Quincy residence is in Norfolk county and in Suffolk because his sponsor has a place of business in Boston. Waner's residence was listed as Sarasota, Fla.

Cutter Speeds to Aid Of Stove-In Vessel

The Coast Guard cutter Cayuga went to the assistance today of the New Bedford fishing vessel Winifred Martin, which was reported by the trawler Triton to have a damaged bow.

The New Bedford vessel's position was given as 195 miles east southeast of Boston. How the damage was suffered was not stated, but it was believed the Winifred Martin must have been in a collision.

Dafoe Amused At Dionne Suit

NEW YORK, July 3 (INS)—A suit brought by Papa Dionne, father of the quintuplets, accusing Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe of fattening his bank account by allowing the commercial use of names and pictures of the quins, was characterized as "a fishing expedition" today by Dr. Dafoe.

Over the telephone the physician to the quins to'd a New York Journal and American reporter:

"Oh, well, I guess Mr. Dionne is just gone a-fishing again. He wants to find out how much money I have in the bank."

Dr. Dafoe seemed more amused than alarmed over the latest legal antics of Papa Dionne. He chuckled when asked to comment on the suit, in which Dionne accuses Dr. Dafoe of entering into private contract with 43 corporations to allow them to use the name of the quins in commercial enterprises.

Dionne is demanding that Dr. Dafoe account for the money received and that he return it into the fund held in trust for the quins.

Raise $1000 for Scout Fair Trip

Public spirited citizens of Concord have raised $1000 by public collection to finance a trip to the New York Fair for members of the World's Fair troop of the Sachem Council of boy scouts of Concord.

The scout troop will leave for New York, probably by bus, on July 4, following public ceremonies at which Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton will preside.

GORED TO DEATH BY BULL

OMAHA, Neb., July 3 (AP)—While a large crowd of motorists watched helplessly, Henry Paulsen, 71, retired Omaha dairyman, was butted fatally by a young bull in a pasture on the outskirts of Iowa.

THE FOURTH OF JULY celebration on the [illegible] . . . for so many [illegible] . . . and those who do not wish to dance the holiday in have a full schedule also with two of the shore's summer theaters opening a season of entertaining theatrical fare . . .

As a matter of fact the holiday celebrating really began over the weekend . . . Saturday evening the Essex County Club held the first of a series of summer dinner dances and over in Magnolia a festive crowd gathered at the Casino for a bit of dancing and a postscript of the Forbes McKean wedding, which was one of the loveliest of the [illegible] . . .

The outdoor porch which provided a lovely moonlit view of the ocean and Gloucester harbor was the most popular dancing spot . . . and couples shuttled back and forth from the porch to their tables and the inside dance floor . . .

Phil Tucker, one of the shore's best dancers, took turns twirling the various girls in his party, which included Mr. and Mrs. Wallie Pierce, the E. Denton Cooks, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gamage and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Welch . . . Mrs. Pierce, who has already acquired a deep tan, wore a filmy gown of black tulle and lace, with scarlet flowers at the neckline, and Mrs. Welch, the former Marian Moffat, enhanced her blonde hair with a full skirted white gown and flame faille jacket . . .

Patricia Phelan Entertains for Guest

NATALIE HAYS HAMMOND, mistress of the beautiful Hammond estate which overlooks the entrance to Gloucester Harbor, shared a table with several friends, including "Ronnie" Cook, who seems to be growing a little blond moustache . . . Miss Hammond's all white outfit was topped by an Oriental jacket edged with vari-colored handwork . . .

Janet Pierce and Eddy Porter, both so blonde they are practically tow-heads, made a striking couple in their all white outfits . . . Jean Evatts, who is visiting Patricia Phelan, celebrated in a sixsome with her hostess and Marie Palmer who is not only the shore's best little trap and drums player, but is also getting to be an expert candid camera photographer . . .

Marie Turner and Ben Beale came on from the McKean wedding and shared a table for two overlooking the ocean . . . Marie, who has the unique hobby of driving sled dogs, wore a summery redingote outfit of luggage and white chiffon print . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Connell dined in a party with the latter's sister, Mrs. James J. Phelan, and still others in the throng were Nancy Cochrane who is on from New York for a brief respite from her dramatic studies, Marileeds Heard in a party which included Ethan and Freddie Ayer, Jr. . . .

Mrs. Livingston Davis Plans Trip West

THE "LITTLE BIRDS" in our out-of-town apiaries, jarred out of their slumber by occasional firecrackers, tell us that . . .

. . . Mrs. Lavingston Davis, who wouldn't miss a Fair for anything, is boarding a train for California the day after the holiday to take in the sights at the Golden Gate Exposition . . . She has already visited the New York Fair a couple of times and when she returns from the coast she will spend the rest of the summer at North Haven, Maine . . .

. . . The long legged stork is hovering over the rooftops of the Peaches Point, Marblehead, home of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Davis, Jr. . . . Mrs. Davis is the former Polly Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cunningham of Milton, and the young couple make their year round home at the shore . . .

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Lynn of Cambridge, are also busy selecting an appropriate name for the new arrival expected at their home this summer . . . Mrs. Lynn is the former Happy Gardiner, an accomplished figure skater, and prominent member of Boston's younger set . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pennington Gardiner of Brookline, whose son, J. Pennington, Jr., recently became the proud daddy of a son born at Faulkner Hospital . . . His wife is the former Julia Gestzy of Hungary . . .

BARON AND BARONESS KRUG VON NIDDA, who have lent considerable sparkle to Boston's social circles since they took up residence in Chestnut Hill last autumn, are shown at a bon voyage party for the Baroness at the Casino in Magnolia. She sailed yesterday from Boston to spend a month with relatives in London.

You Can Be Beautiful

PICTURESQUE and breathtaking you may be as you play in the sun . . . perhaps wearing a figure-divine suit like the Mabs of Hollywood number in which Judith Barrett poses, a lastex "sharktex" number with more form-control tricks than you'd believe it possible for such a small handful to have . . . but if you don't take care to have proper protection from the sun, you'll lose the softness of skin texture and color. Arline Gould describes a new lip youth sun protective aid

Keep Lips Smooth, Soft

By ARLINE GOULD

SUNBURNED lips are about as big a deterrent to summer glamour, aims and ambitions as anything we could possibly think of! And don't think that an over-dose of sun and wind won't raise fever blisters on your lips even though they're generously coated with lipstick, because it will!

At the least, too much sun and salt water will shred the delicate tissues and age your mouth by far too, many years, if you don't watch out!

Wherever sun worshippers foregather, there's a sunburn preventive name which commands immediate respect. It's been known for years in the north countries where sunburn from ice and snow fields is a constant menace.

AGNES DOYLE

TEACHER HONORED ON EVE OF CRUISE

A whirl of gay bon voyage parties have been given in honor of Agnes Doyle of Jamaica Plain who leaves today from Montreal for a summer-long cruise to the West Coast via the Panama Canal.

Miss Doyle, a teacher in the Lucy Stone School in Dorchester and popular member of the Aristos Club, was feted recently by her twin-sister, Agnes, at an informal party for club members. Mrs. Raymond MacGuire of Jamaica Plain also entertained for Agnes.

Speak Well In Public

The first time Julia has given a talk at the state convention of her club yet how poised she is!

She knows the correct way to address an audience, the principles of public speaking. (Isn't lovely she begins "Madame Chairman fellow delegates, friends. We appreciate so much your interest in the work our group is doing . . .

People listen eagerly yet not so long ago, Julia sat back shyly in club meetings. Amazing how her home practice in public speaking has brought her to the fore.

In your own club or organization, quickly you "rise from the ranks" when you learn to speak effectively, know parliamentary forms.

What to do if you are asked to act as temporary chairman? You have no awkward moments if you know the proper way to start a meeting. Rap with the gavel, say, "The meeting will please come to order."

Clear enunciation is important, too. It contributes to the impression you give of culture gets you understood even by the back rows. So avoid slurring "I don't know" "Is that so?" into "I dunno," "Zat so?" Practice saying each syllable distinctly.

How to prepare a speech? Hold the attention of your audience? Our 40-page booklet, Self-Instruction in Public Speaking, tells how to prepare and present effective speeches, cultivate your voice. Gives parliamentary rules, many sample speeches for different occasions. Pointers for radio speakers, toastmasters.

Breakfast for Glorious Fourth

By MARTHA LEE

If there are children in the family it is a good idea to plan to get up early on July 4th and join them in shooting off the first firecrackers. There is little or no sleep for anyone after the racket starts, and why not smile and start off with the fun?

Maybe some of the activity will start before breakfast, and you may find it helps if father goes out in the backyard with the children while mother gets the breakfast. If the day is just right, serve the meal out in the yard. Start the meal with a glass of well chilled pineapple or tomato juice, or with some melon balls and canned prunes.

An omelet just quivering with perfect tenderness would be good for the main dish. Around it serve some tiny sausages the kind that come in cans. They will remind the children of the little firecrackers they have been shooting off. Have plenty of hot, crisp toast, and some beverage. Either milk or hot chocolate for the children and coffee for the grown-ups.

FLUFFY OMELET

4 eggs, separated
½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. butter
Parsley

Beat egg yolks until thick and light; add seasonings and milk; fold into stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered, hot 9-inch frying or omelet pan and cook over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes, or until omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom. (Test by raising edge of omelet with spatula.) Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 10 to 15 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed with finger. Cut about 1-inch incisions at opposite sides and crease down through center in line with cuts, then fold carefully on crease by slipping spatula under half of omelet to fold over. Slip on to hot platter and garnish with parsley; if an omelet pan is used, merely fold over; omelet will shrink slightly when removed from pan. Serve at once. Makes about 6 portions.

Instead of an omelet, creamed dried beef on toast or a combination of chipped beef and mushrooms might be featured. Use the liquid from the canned mushrooms in place of part of the milk in making the cream sauce.

CREAMED DRIED BEEF

2 cups medium white sauce
1 pkg. (4 oz.) dried beef, shredded
Buttered hot toast

Prepare white sauce, omitting salt; add shredded beef and heat slowly about 10 minutes. Serve on toast. One egg or 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten, may be stirred into creamed beef just before serving. Makes about 6 portions.

Fried fish cakes make a fine breakfast dish, and the ones that come in cans are all ready to be fried when they are taken from the can. They may be served plain, or with tomato or cream sauce. Some sauted pineapple slices would be particularly good with the fish cakes.

Or try one of these novel fish cake recipes:

FISH CAKES ON TOAST

1 can ready-to-fry codfish cakes
4 eggs, hard boiled
3 tbsps. butter
6 slices toast
1 cup milk
2 tbsps. flour
Salt, pepper, parsley

Shape contents of can into six fish cakes and fry them quickly in deep fat. With a large biscuit cutter, cut half inch slices of bread into circular shape. Toast these and butter slightly. Cut eggs in [illegible] Place one fish cake on each round of toast and [illegible] Make a cream sauce of the butter, milk, flour and seasonings to taste. When thickened, stir in other hard boiled egg, either chopped or mashed. Pour this sauce over the fish cakes and garnish with parsley.

ALL THE NEWS AND PICTURES FIT TO PRINT

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-THREE years ago tomorrow a bell was rung in the tower of the Pennsylvania State House to summon the people of Philadelphia to the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence.

It was the LIBERTY BELL, upon the sides of which were prophetically inscribed these words from the Book of Leviticus:

"Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The long since-dead thousands who were privileged to hear the bell's deep and melodic peals "proclaim" we are told, with mingled pride and joy, for the spirit of individual freedom in their hearts was also tolling the knell of Old World despotism and singing the paean of New World democracy.

THE LIBERTY BELL
Tolled Despotism's Knell

That is the kind of celebration we need tomorrow throughout the length and breadth of America.

For never in the history of this country has it been more necessary than at the present time to combat the doctrines that would make of July Fourth a mockery and to hurl back again in the face of Europe those very tyrannical philosophies against which the Declaration of Independence thundered.

This document, which produced the greatest experiment in human freedom the world has ever known, should be read from every platform and pulpit of the United States, and in every public place and private home.

It was the BIRTH CERTIFICATE of a nation which had resolved to set its face forever against one-man government and arbitrary usurpation of power.

It endures as a FORTRESS OF TRUTH that eternally resists the assaults of Regimentation, Dependence, Collectivism, Parasitism, Communism, Socialism and all other forces that would destroy the country and write its death certificate.

WORKING WIVES are heartened by the decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Court which sanctions the employment of married women in public service.

These job holders agree enthusiastically with the five justices who declared in response to a request from the Legislature that the dismissal of individuals because of marriage would be a violation of existing constitutional guarantees against "arbitrary discrimination."

But the opposing side is neither discouraged nor inclined to abandon its campaign in behalf of single girls.

Here, leaders find hope in the Court's minority opinion which holds that proposed legislation against working wives is not "arbitrary" and says the problem "is broader and more fundamental, and must be viewed entirely with reference to the public interest."

This, they say, is in line with the verdict of Massachusetts voters who, during the last election, voted two-to-one against married women when the question of their employment was considered in sixty districts.

They also point to a previous Supreme Court ruling which found that marriage was sufficient cause for the dismissal of school teachers.

As a result a vigorous effort to amend the Constitution seems probable.

"MASSACHUSETTS OPPRESSES" motorists more than most other States," opponents of Governor Saltonstall's proposed two-cent tax on gasoline recently told the Legislature's Committee on Ways and Means.

"If the law-makers will examine the reports of the Department of Corporations and Taxation, they will find that since 1927, rates on real estate have increased 19 per cent," said Sidney von Loesecke of the Automobile Legal Association. "On the other hand, the tax burden on motor vehicles since 1927 has increased 110 per cent."

Mr. von Loesecke might have cited other facts. He might have volunteered this information:

Massachusetts annually extracts $26,631,000 from automobile owners, an amount sufficient to provide $14,210 for every mile of surfaced highway within the State.

If the Governor's recommendation is accepted, this Commonwealth will have a gasoline tax higher than those imposed in 26 States and the District of Columbia.

Do they our strings manipulate . . . or are we masters of our fate?

Human Side of News -:- by EDWIN C. HILL

THERE ARE MOST arresting phases of our Federal Government's fascinating activities which seem to attract much interest from the press, usually coming to attention through matter of fact bulletins.

There are services which continually plan and labor for the security and comfort of our people, and the planners and laborers are individuals whose names almost never appear in print.

There are government scientists, without a thought of old deals or new deals who chart the deeps, maintain our beacon lights on coast and inland waterways, teach the farmers how to make two blades grow where one flourished before.

For example, The United States Lighthouse Service, of which Alexander Hamilton was the first superintendent, is celebrating this summer its 150th anniversary, and its current bulletin informs me that Boston Lighthouse, the first lighthouse built in American waters, is still going strong after 233 years.

THE LIGHTHOUSE Service is an organization in which all Americans can take great pride. On the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts of the American mainland, on the shores of Alaska, Hawaii, Samoa, Puerto Rico, the Panama Canal, on the Great Lakes, along the Mississippi and the other navigable rivers of the United States, more than 29,000 aids of safe navigation are flashing warning signals, and the number continues to increase.

PICTURESQUE ANNISQUAM AT GLOUCESTER
"What Drama Lighthouses Have Seen Down Through the Years!"

Politics has never played a part in the Lighthouse Service. Its men look upon their work as a career profession, and upon themselves as a fraternity whose business is to safeguard ships at sea.

The most powerful lighthouse we have is the great beacon at Navesink, flashing its radiant warning fifty miles out at sea. Our first lighthouse keeper—at Boston Lighthouse, of course—was George Worthylake, who was drowned with his wife and daughter in 1718.

When Benjamin Franklin was 13 years old, he wrote a ballad about that tragic incident.

The Lighthouse Service has come a long way from the days of the early lights, with their whale oil lamps and wicks, to the modern electric lances which now pierce the nights and the storms, and the radio signal beams flung 300 miles out into the sea lanes.

WHAT DRAMA lighthouses have seen down through the years! What tall ships ashore! What heroic endeavor and gallant rescues!

Even in these modern days, when ship speaks to ship by radio and calls to land, all men who go down to the sea in ships turn their eyes thankfully to these tall, slim brethren of the coasts, flashing their eternal warning against an ancient enemy.

Political Parade -:- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 3. Its the stuck pig that squeals. How true it is that one must return to the homely adages of his youth to explain much that is otherwise inconsistent.

Hot have been the denunciations from on high of the temporary Senate coalition of conservative Republicans, and Democratic and Republican Silverites which fought to deprive the President of his extraordinary power to further devalue the gold dollar, and boosted the price of American silver.

FOR this simple act in attempting to restore to Congress its constitutional powers over the money of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt, at Hyde Park, unlimbered his main and auxiliary batteries against the Senate coalition.

Both were formidable. On the first barrage the President accused the Senate of playing into the hands of the international gamblers, and on the second of doing damage to the national defense.

Both of these charges were calculated to be injurious to any Senator who got in the way of the heavy artillery—on the eve of an election.

But let us consider the other side of the coalition picture.

CONGRESSMAN WOODRUM
Leaders Weren't Interested

The other day, in the House, the Democratic leadership, largely Southern, was in a quandary. The Senate had added to the agricultural appropriation bill something like a third of a billion dollars for farm parity payments, and what not.

Here was a huge burden to be placed on the Treasury, which has no way to get such extra sums save by borrowing.

But the Democratic leaders of the House were not interested in relieving this and future generations from the burdens to be imposed by this squandering.

They, under their orders, were interested in saving an Administration scheme.

The House in the interest of economy, and as the result of investigations by Congressman Woodrum's Committee, had voted to cut out much waste and extravagance in WPA.

It is clear from the evidence that an understanding was reached whereby for their support of the farm grab by the Senate, the Representatives from some of the large cities, where the WPA economies would be made, would be assured of getting a restoration of the WPA cuts.

WE HAVE LATELY seen how Senate Democratic leaders, in fulfilment of this gentlemen's understanding at the House, cut all the economy they could out of WPA, including even the proposed restoration of the Theater Project, with its indefensible record of Communism and flagrant waste.

That kind of a coalition was all right. But a coalition whereby American-mined silver was to be purchased by the Treasury at an advance of 13 cents, and a total cost of about $7,000,000 a year, was all wrong.

The real story is that Long had asked the Tulane officials whether he could get a law degree, if he attended the Law School's night sessions for two years. Someone said it could be done. But after these two years of study, the degree was refused him. Huey thereupon directed that a Louisiana jurist give him a bar examination, in open court. MONDAY MUSINGS: How successful Producer Lew Brown will be in barring performers' mothers from backstage of theaters in which his shows are playing is a matter of general theatrical interest . . . Many a producer before Brown has been plagued by "stage mothers" . . . In numerous cases backstage rivalries have become flaming feuds, disrupting the morale of a company and destroying the team spirit essential for a successful run through the jealousy or spitefulness of these same doting mothers . . . Producer Brown's flare-up came the night before his show, "Yokel Boy" left Boston . . . It came after one of his girl principals missed a cue and when the producer learned that the girl's mother had delayed her hopeful's entrance to make a last-minute and unessential change in the actress' costume.

BETWEEN THE ACTS the angry producer yelled to his company: "No more mothers backstage. They're barred" . . . Affected were the mothers of Lois January, the Canovas and Dixie Dunbar . . . Miss Dunbar pleaded with the producer to let her retain the services of her mother—as a dresser . . . She told him that she couldn't afford to hire a maid . . . But as the company detrained for New York, where the show will open Thursday night, Lew was adamant . . . The ban was still on, and he swore he would make it stick . . . Not all stage mothers, of course, are harpies or cruel . . . Some of them have shrewdly managed their offspring, and have been self-effacing and considerate in doing the job . . . There are enough of the other variety, women who make robots of their youngsters and who come to regard their success as personal triumphs (and their earnings as personal income) to warrant an experiment in keeping them out of the theater while their progeny is working.

WORD HAS BEEN PASSED along to the column that young Max West, the Bees' outfielder, became heartened and greatly encouraged by a few lines in this space a month or so ago . . . Here's hoping he reaches the .300 class in a hurry . . . Five hits out of nine times at bat yesterday was fair enough . . . If he has been able to sleep well since he made his getaway, the oversigned is sure that this new bit of news won't disturb his slumbers . . . The man's wife is prostrated—and fear is held for her recovery . . . She keeps murmuring: "We were getting a little pleasure . . . Just walking'" Then she screams: "Look out, dear!" . . . Then she goes into a coma—a short coma . . . Then the pitiful little speech and the scream again . . . I haven't read in the newspapers that the man has been apprehended . . . Or was he, and is some small-town constabulary shushing the episode because he was "important?"

What Does America Mean to You?

By Elsie Robinson

JULY THE FOURTH . . . America's birthday . . . But what is America?

You looked puzzled. You've always taken America granted . . . never occurred to you to define it. But you try—

"America? Why, America's a nation—my nation. America's the 48 United States . . . 3,026,789 square miles of earth . . . 130 million people. America's the Mayflower . . . Pilgrims and Puritans . . . the Constitution . . . Washington . . . Jefferson . . . Lincoln . . . Jane Addams . . . Skyscrapers . . . Boulder Dam . . . America's all these things."

You're wrong. America ISN'T all these things. America isn't a place—or a people. AMERICA IS A STATE OF MIND.

YOU CAN define other countries in terms of population and possessions. But you can't define America that way, for that wasn't why America started. America didn't come because people wanted land or money or power or the things of the flesh. America came because a few inspired men and women wanted the things of the spirit . . . and sought this place to satisfy that hunger.

America's a dream—the greatest dream Man ever had. America's a prayer—the tallest prayer Man ever made. America's a contract—the most difficult one Man ever signed.

You watch the parade today . . . listen to the thunder of the drums and your throat swells with pride. You whisper to yourself, "My country!" BUT IS AMERICA YOUR COUNTRY?

Being born in America doesn't make you an American. Paying taxes, owning property, doesn't make you American.

YOU CAN'T BUY YOUR WAY IN AS CHEAPLY AS THAT! OR SHARE VALLEY FORGE AND THE COVERED WAGON TRAIL AS EASILY AS THAT.

YOU CAN'T CLIMB ON ANOTHER MAN'S BRAVERY OR CONQUER WITH ANOTHER MAN'S BLOOD NOT IN THIS COUNTRY.

Being an American is a One Man Job . . . one man's, each man's state of mind. If you haven't that state of mind, you're not American, even though your Grandpas crowded the Mayflower and fought in every U. S. war!

JULY THE FOURTH . . . America's Birthday . . . What does America mean to YOU? Does it mean a place where you live and work and play and make [illegible]?

IF THAT IS WHAT AMERICA MEANS TO YOU, YOU ARE AS FOREIGN AS ANY ABORIGINE FROM THE DEPTHS OF THE JUNGLE . . . AS ALIEN AS ANY BOMB-TOTING ANARCHIST . . . A FAKE AND A MENACE TO [illegible]

Or does it mean a vision you see . . . a prayer you share . . . a hope and hunger whose roots are in your heart? And are you willing to pay with your last drop of blood for that priceless heritage?

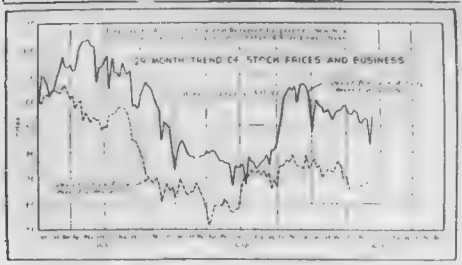
Good News From Lynn Shoe Plants



Lynn supplies the best good news lead with which to start the first week of July . . . One which holds promise of generally better days to come for New England as well as the Bay State . . . For it concerns the section of shoe manufacture concentrated here . . .

SHOE SHOPS . . . In Lynn are reported to have a brisk start on fall lines . . . Runs in important shops have begun so well that some firms are reported to have put in additional equipment . . . The answer is found in the increase at retail of womens shoes in the $2 bracket. . . . And it will be remembered that the breakdown of the various types of shoe manufacture printed here a week ago showed more than half of the plants in New England are devoted to this grade . . . That is the answer to cheer developing from the Lynn news . . . And with a third of New England plants in the $3 to $4 grade any lift in retail buying demand will bring higher activity levels . . .

STOCKS LEAD . . . The chart for today disparages the remarkable ability of stock prices to forecast trade trends . . . While the line portraying equity prices lags somewhat because of its extreme breadth — it includes 419 issues — the movement is quite well compensated for by accuracy . . . It might have been possible to continue the chart beyond the middle of June by using a narrower stock average but we doubt if the forecasting value would have held up as well . . . Time and again stock prices showed the way by a matter of months . . . And if they succeed in holding above the low of early April during the current set back it will surely appear that a new and important phase of buying is in the making . . .

BRIGHT NOTE . . . On heavy industry is sounded by the United Business Service of Boston today in its regular weekly bulletin . . . The long depressed rail equipment industry is shown to be in a better position than it was a year ago . . . And a further increase in orders is seen resulting from an indicated upping in business activity . . . Long pull prospects in rail equipment are said to be rated favorable . . . While the improvement speeded over railroads in the U.S. at large to make new capital investments . . . As for what to look for next year thinks operating results of the some improvement over 1938 . . .

Misbehavior of Politicians

Potential prosperity has been aborted by the misbehavior of politicians. Fears over Trentsin and over Danzig have followed other tense moments incidental to the Austrian and Czecho-Slovak crisis.

Uncertainty deprives the current generation in Europe especially of the peace of mind which it deserves.

From an economic standpoint, the jitteriness means that plan for long-term investment in new plants, projects, and civilizing ideas have been still born.

The cost of high jinks by totalitarian adventurers can be measured by both positive and negative terms.

On the positive side, there is the increase in the cost of preparedness in all the principal nations of the world. In human terms this means a diversion of precious facilities and manpower from comfort goods for the people to equipment for Mars . . .

On the negative side, the cost is even greater. The human race is temporarily deprived of the "more abundant life" which modern technology, superior tools and power equipment otherwise would make feasible. People everywhere are deprived of the potential increases in living standards which would come from increasing technological economies.

In short, while either leader has [illegible] in a test of wills [illegible] Sober faith in [illegible] standards when science and invention and business initiative are ready to enable them . . .

Stock Market Leaders Stage Ragged Rally

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) A little buying in a few investment favorites and miscellaneous industrial shares lifted prices moderately in a listless pre-holiday stock market today.

Suspense over the outcome of the Danzig situation in Europe as well as the confused political picture in Washington continued to keep speculators on the sidelines. Many remained away from the financial district [illegible] the Fourth of July.

DEAL'S LEND-SPEND PLAN IS CHALLENGED

WASHINGTON, July 3 (INS) The Chamber of Commerce of the United States took a [illegible] attitude tonight toward the administration's new lend-for-recovery program.

Without mentioning the Mead bill, providing a huge federal authority for public improvement, the chamber, in a summary of the nation's business affairs said:

"Far-reaching proposals of one kind and other, now before Congress, to extend the uses of the national credit for non-governmental purposes, call for the closest possible public understanding of the deeper issues involved.

"More light is needed, so that an intelligent public appraisal of the whys and wherefores of such plans may be made."

Before any action is taken, the chamber said, such vital questions as the following should be considered:

"Would a broad extension of government into the field of investment banking lead to state capitalism?

"Would it mean that large-scale government spending and lending are to become permanent, rather than emergency, functions of the federal government?

"Would it mean that states and municipalities are to surrender more of their independence in return for federal guaranteed loans for public improvements?

"Would the prospect of an increasingly government-dominated economy cause a further shrinkage in private investment, there by more than offsetting any improvement that may result from further government lending?"

The Chamber also declared [illegible]

Streamlined Plan for Wheat Insurance

WASHINGTON, July 3 (INS) Throughout the western wheat belt [illegible] Administrator Alvin [illegible] will hold regional conferences [illegible] to discuss with farmers a streamlined plan for wheat crop insurance policies, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation announced.

"The 1940 program, while basically the same as the 1939 wheat crop insurance plan, incorporates many improvements which will effect many economies in operation, declared Leroy K. Smith, manager of the corporation, continuing:

"All risk crop insurance was first made available to wheat growers in 1938, to apply on the crop now being harvested. The program was and still is experimental, but in the first year it has given protection to more than 120,000 growers, and has revealed many short cuts to better and simpler methods of operation.

[illegible]

It will be easier for growers to obtain credit on loans with which to pay premiums [illegible] end of the record mentioned to the AAA [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] allowances for premiums [illegible] under the AAA [illegible]

AUSTEN LAKE

Here's Health! Jack and Connie

TWO MEN LIE ILL—two who have done much to bring credit to their wings of sport. Jack Dempsey—the man who always left 'em arguing as the arch-fighter of the universe, is struggling with gangrene in a New York hospital. Connie Mack, the man who never argued and at 76 looks like a gray schoolmaster, is convalescing from a mysterious microbe at his Germantown, Pa., home. The world of sport wishes them quick return to health.

AUSTEN LAKE

Before he left his Back Bay hotel on Saturday night I visited briefly with the fine old septugenarian. He was a little sparer and a little more gaunt. His pale eyes were set a little deeper under the arch of his shaggy brows. And his voice, always low, was little more than a murmur.

But he said a wistful thing, "I'd like to do it all over again," referring to his 55 years in baseball. And from these presents you will know what sort of life he lived. For no man with the hounds of regret on his eldering heels looks backward with pleasure. Such a man averts his eyes lest shadows come to mock him from his past.

But at 76 Connie turns and looks down the corridor of his years and what he sees makes him say, "I'd like to do it all over again."

Exception to Sporting Rule

Connie has been the one great exception to the sporting rule, that to have friends ensures the making of enemies. And though he began [illegible] time which made John McGraw, Ban Johnson, Kid Gleason and [illegible] of that uproarious company of rough and tumble immortals, Connie never slugged any jaws or screamed any curses or committed any hooliganisms even in the time when it was common baseball custom [illegible] kidnap backs for wild chases through the streets. The hates of McGraw, the knuckle fights of Kid Gleason, the feuds and wrangles of Johnson had no part in his scheme. He held his players who were no finer or tougher than the rest, by [illegible] this worst rebuke "You are not doing your [illegible] abuse or free hand bust to the nose.

Connie was born in the thick of this country's turmoil. He was [illegible] 23, 1862 and the North was bewildered by the first failures of the Union Army. Bull Run and Fredricksburg had been fought and an unknown general named Ulysses Grant was reforming shattered Federal [illegible] Presidents have come, administered and [illegible]. The country has fought two major wars. Prosperity and depression have stumbled on each others heels. The West was won from the Indians and lost by the Republicans. The era of Thomas Edison produced marvels of electric lights, movies and the phonograph. Hustles and hips went out and Annette Kellerman introduced hygenic nudity and the slim, debutante slink. Harvard finally beat Yale.

And yet Connie says, "I'd like to live it all over again." Good man!

AND THEN JACK DEMPSEY—rugged product of a rugged country, a boy who came from the copper mines, rode the freight couplings and by the knack of his fists made a million and became a public chum. Nor has he ever lost popular affection.

Before his collapse in New York I sat in his mid town tavern while Jack Miley of the N. Y. Post asked, impertinently, whether he felt that he could have flattened Joe Louis if each met the other in his prime, and when Dempsey modestly ducked the question and departed to attend to some culinary matter, it started an argument. It's an old Dempsey trick. He always left them arguing.

Remember? It started in Toledo, O., twenty years ago tomorrow.

An unpainted lumber arena under a pitiless sun . . . Dempsey knocked Willard silly with his first punch . . . the huge man staggering, slumping, coming up and being dropped again . . . They still argue how many times Willard went down in that round.

Later, that September night in 1923 when Dempsey fought a shaggy troglodyte named Angel Firpo . . . Dempsey almost dropped as he rushed in at the opening bell . . . He nailed Firpo again and again, just as last week Louis nailed Galento . . . He's up . . . He's down . . . How many times? . . . Dempsey standing over the South American and hitting as he comes off the floor . . . Foul?

The "Long Count"

THE JULY NIGHT OF 1927 with the primely conditioned Jack Sharkey fighting a decadent Dempsey . . . Dempsey driving three low punches to Sharkey's middle in the 7th round . . . Sharkey, his mouth puckered with pain turning to complain to the referee . . . Dempsey stepping in and belting him for the knockout as he looks away . . . Arguments with thousands disagreeing.

Soldiers Field, Chicago, Sept 22 1927. Dempsey in his second coming up must bring Tunney down. The 7th round and Dempsey crowds his man into an angle of the ropes and sends him reeling under a shower of blows. Tunney down and looking like a man in a bathtub while Dempsey looks above for the quick, finishing crack . . . Referee Dave Barry waving him to a neutral corner and Dempsey glaring heatedly. Barry starting the count over Tunney at 1 instead of picking it up from the chest of the knockdown judge at 4 . . . Arguments which still find a present day echo.

So two more both National treasures for different reasons, both venerated as symbols of the best in U. S. sport, are fighting against the lowest organisms known to science, the microbe. And the world wishes them quick recovery. In such times of greed, political distrust and international hate the country needs its sport personalities to distract the mind from grimmer problems. Here's health Jack and Connie!

Cooke Ousts Austin In Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 3 (AP)—Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., stormed all over the favorite and No. 1 seed, Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin of England, today to defeat him, 6—3, 6—0, 6—1, in the quarter-final round of the All-England men's singles tennis championships.

Battering Austin's weak service for winners and following [illegible] deep-angled drives to the net, Cooke, who was seeded sixth, simply wiped Bunny off the court.

[illegible] thus lost a chance for which he was [illegible] up to Ellsworth Vines last and to Don Budge last year.

In only seven games of the [illegible] was Austin able to make a battle of it.

GASHOUSE PLAY BY SOX, YANKS TICKLES 35,000

By JOE CASHMAN

It's an extremely welcome rest the Yanks and Red Sox are enjoying today after their rip-snorting Sabbath twin-bill.

The American League's top two entries went all out in furnishing four and one-half hours of fireworks for a sell-out crowd of 35,000.

Not since the Tigers-Cards World's Series of 1934 have we seen such a display of Gashouse baseball.

And when the debris had been cleared, Tommy Henrich of the Yanks was in St. Elizabeth's Hospital with a four-stitch scalp wound, while Sox Bobby Doerr and Gene Desautels were just able to hobble around after medical treatment.

Add to this hospital squad "Buddy" Rosar of the Yanks, badly spiked in Saturday's fray, and you have the full list of victims of one of the stormiest series in the post-war history of the Back Bay yard.

The Croninmen held their own in the free-for-all and finished up with a 2 to 1 edge in the baseball end of the program.

All of which is something to brag about even if the McCarthy maulers are still out front by 12½ games.

SOX PROVE CLASS

The engagement demonstrated very vividly that when the Sox can field their strongest lineup and get fair to middlin' pitching, they're more than a match for the supposedly invincible New Yorkers.

In other words, judging from the battles between these rivals not only in this engagement but to date this season the Yanks are out in front simply and solely because they have a greater number of effective pitchers.

Possibly the Sox will never be able to match the Yanks' mound strength. On the other hand, they might if Woody Rich, who pitched his first inning in six weeks yesterday, soon regains top form.

SOX STILL IN RACE

Anyway after all the Sox have shown against the pace-setters, it would be crazy to count them out of the runing at least until they've finished playing five games in three days in New York, starting this coming Friday.

That, at any rate, was the consensus of the Sunday customers as they wended their way homeward muttering about "dirty dork" by the Yanks.

There was plenty of rough work on both sides but none of it appeared premeditated or deliberate from the press coop.

Henrich, being tagged out at the plate in the opening stanza of the first game, all but undressed Desautels. His head spinning, his knees buckling and his lip cut, Gene had to quit for the afternoon.

The Yankee flychaser could have been more gentle, but he was trying to win a very close play and he came roaring in no more menacingly than did Tabor when he spiked Rosar the day before.

Doerr's mishap, in the third frame of the opener was a little different. He was hit on the arm by a wild pitch by "Goofy" Conrad.

It was feared that the Sox brilliant second-sacker had sustained a few broken bones, a day following his return to the lineup after a month's absence with a wrenched back, but an X-ray revealed he had escaped any fractures.

Henrich, of course had only himself to blame for his accident. He cracked his ankle against the right field wall in a gallant but futile attempt to catch up with a Ted Williams homer. That jaunt, a poke, coming with two mates aboard, broke a 3-3 tie and cinched Grove's eighth victory in the seventh inning.

With Skipper Cronin keeping the Sox in the early running with a two-run homer, which excused him for later being a victim of the Baldwin ball trick, and Terrific Teddy coming through in such dramatic fashion to settle the decision, the capacity gathering had high hopes of a series sweep for their Fenway favorites when Elden Auker stepped out against Bump Hadley in the nightcap.

Those hopes were dashed quickly. Auker yielded two runs in the second stanza. He gave up four more in the third, including a homer by Bill Dickey.

Jake Wade came in to throw a home-run ball to Joe DiMaggio with a mate on in the sixth. Jim Bagby yielded another run in the seventh.

The customers though were kept on edge most of the way. Among other things they saw York Jake Powell get chased for remarks from the bench aimed at Umpire Lou Kolls and George Selkirk nearly decapitate Johnny Peacock with a straight-arm in racing across the plate.

Yes, there was plenty of fun. And not all of it clean.

FLASH'S SMOKE SCREEN—Great action photo tells the story of Flash Gordon's scoring for the Yanks in the fourth inning of the Sunday opener at Fenway. Gordon comes thundering home in a cloud of dust, crashing through Catcher Johnny Peacock, who drops the ball as Umpire Summers watches. The Hose won, 7-3, then dropped the nightcap, 9 to 3, before 35,000 fans.

Ouimet Play Minus Francis

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 3 (AP)—The field of the tournament honoring Francis Ouimet first victory in the U. S. amateur golf tourney here at the Ekwanck links 25 years ago was narrowed to 16 today but that veteran Boston player was not among them.

Ouimet was eliminated by a 2 and 1 margin by A. Orbal E. Lunch of the Winged Foot Club. He was joined on the sidelines by another veteran Boston player Jesse Guilford. Guilford bowed 4 and 3 to Larry Lloyd, an Ekwanck veteran.

V. F. W. Distributes B's Game Tickets

State Commander Wilfred E. Jacobs of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced today that distribution of guest tickets for children of veterans to attend the game between Bees-Cincinnati at the Hive on July 17 would begin on Saturday morning.

Some 10,000 children will be guests of the Bees on July 17.

Mack 'Definitely Better'

PHILADELPHIA, July 3 (AP)—Connie Mack, ailing dean of baseball, is definitely better today.

Roy Mack, son of the 76-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, said his father had a restful night and showed continued improvement after illness forced his return from Boston on a stretcher.

Although his condition still is regarded as serious, Roy Mack said the use of a stretcher to bring his father home was to "conserve his energy" and did not indicate his condition was "desperate."

Mack has showed an alert interest in his team and asked the outcome and attendance of two games the Athletics lost to Washington yesterday.

BEES FACE JINTS NEXT

PHILADELPHIA, July 3 (INS)—The Bees won a Sunday double-header from the Phillies, 9 to 7, and 4 to 3, and then started home to Boston for the holiday battle with the Giants.

All the scoring of the second game was concentrated in the fourth and fifth innings. Lanning was the winning hurler and Johnson was presented with the loss.

Homers by Lopez in the second—and Simmons—in the fifth—paced the Bees to their first game triumph. Joe Marty walloped a homer for the Phillies in the seventh.

Olympets Duel Fisk Team

The Boston Olympets' hopes for victory over the state champions, the Fisk Rubber Girls of Springfield, at the Garden on Thursday evening, took a brighter hue today when word was received that the Pets' ace hurler, Helen Johnston, would be back in the lineup.

The Back Bay girl has been ill for the past week.

If Helen is not ready for the Springfield game, then Coach Harris will have left hander Mary Pratt, on the firing line.

Pat Rooney, regional director of the sport in New England, is anxious to take a team from this section to the Nationals, in Chicago. If the Pets can beat the Springfield girls, there is a possibility that they will see the Windy City.

Eagles Ranked High For '39 Grid Gallop

By Associated Press

Tag Boston College (along with Fordham, Cornell and Brown) as the football teams to watch in the east next season . . . Canada doesn't know it but it has just hired Ted Tory Galento as a referee.

The Lions Layden have decided to adopt their latest attack [illegible] which gives them a Pat and Mike combination. All reserved seats for "Lou Gehrig Day" at the stadium tomorrow were sold out a week ago . . . AIN'T IT THE TRUE?

Willard Mullin says the guy who beats Louis must have the punch of a young Baer, the speed of a Pastor, the youth of a Nova, the confidence of a Galento, the coolness of a Schmeling, the durability of a Farr.

Note to seven American League clubs: The Yanks are going to win their fourth straight pennant by 25 games . . . SPIRIT TOP ASSET OF GREAT PLAYER

By MICKEY COCHRANE

A [illegible] other must come in at the [illegible] he must be ready and he must be a pitcher with courage, ready to give everything [illegible]

[illegible] others want to know exactly what the situation of the game is.

They have the knack of getting [illegible] the game before. [illegible] Jesse Haines, Lefty Grove, Lefty [illegible] and Waite Hoyt. They want to [illegible] and [illegible] they want to know just exactly where they stand.

The pitcher must have [illegible] and confidence and [illegible] when [illegible] we [illegible] the pitching capacity of Lefty Grove in a World Series game and that brings to mind the [illegible] a pinch hitter must have. And here we are [illegible] of hitter to use is what [illegible].

Times out of number [illegible] will hear catcalls during the campaign when big team is a run behind, a runner on second, and he decides to use a pinch hitter. The [illegible] player be used. The reason for the selection of the particular hitter is usually quite obvious.

The first rule is never to use your best pinch hitter until the last ditch has been approached, or when the winning run is on base. You can only use him once, and where and when to use him is always bothersome—to the fans.

LINE DRIVE MAN

Oftentimes your best pinch hitter will be a line drive man. Now [illegible] does not hit fly balls very often. Well, with an important run on third base and one out, it is not percentage baseball to send him to bat when a fellow with a far small er batting average may deliver a fly ball.

Winning spirit, I suppose, you'll call the mental attitude of the good, or great, relief pitcher or pinch hitter. He's necessarily impervious to criticism, jockeying by the enemy, or the catcalls of the fans.

Confidence [illegible] essential to the winning spirit. And in [illegible] Yes, the [illegible] would [illegible] and [illegible] kicking around.

There is a [illegible] called [illegible] who [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] Cobb and Ruth were pretty [illegible] like Cobb and Ruth to get them mad. [illegible]

"Keep Ruth laughing and happy," and "Above all, don't get Mr. Cobb mad at you. He'll hurt you if he gets mad."

That Athletics team of the old days [illegible] as ever pulled on a spiked shoe. We formed a swashbuckling, arrogant, confident band of fellows, [illegible] set of rookies. In 1925 and we thought we were going to ride roughshod over the league. And we were going through the motions of doing just that.

[illegible] Mr. Mack was [illegible] walk on [illegible].

"Leave that fellow Cobb alone, don't get him mad at you."

But being young and foolish we [illegible] the old fellow man, who's been around since the league started, didn't know exactly what he was talking about.

OVERCONFIDENCE HURTS

We went into St. Louis for a [illegible] We were [illegible] for [illegible] and [illegible] on Ken Williams [illegible] slugging outfielder. George Sisler, one of the finest [illegible] ever played, and Marty McManus. Urban Shocker was [illegible] us, and we went [illegible] our sweet [illegible] was [illegible] the fifth [illegible] of the [illegible] We had a Steel Pier [illegible] two out and two on and Ken Williams at bat.

Gray was so cocky and confident that he selected the two-and-nothing ball as a place to try out a new pitch on which he had been working. Sam said this pitch would "sail" and he sailed it up to Williams who sailed it out of the park.

The Browns beat us 4-3. They beat us the next day, and in the first game of the series. What had been a five-game lead disappeared when we headed for Detroit.

Remember the [illegible] previous [illegible] we told Cobb and he [illegible] us to [illegible] that he would knock [illegible] of the pennant on the next [illegible].

Well, he went [illegible]. He [illegible] hits [illegible]. It [illegible] at bat as a [illegible] sorry. He [illegible] hit but home plate.

DROP IS IN ROW

Before we left town we were in [illegible] and before we could [illegible] of ourselves we [illegible]. The [illegible] handling [illegible] one of a bunch of fielding [illegible] had accumulated [illegible] Our confidence [illegible] we started up when the pressure got [illegible]. The rocking had [illegible] for the opposition.

Have Fun and Win a PRIZE

If you have missed some of the earlier pictures use the "BACK COPY" order blank which appears on this page.

You Can Win One of These Awards If You Can Identify the Boston Players

Read the Rules Carefully

1. Beginning in the Boston Sunday Advertiser of June 18 and continuing each week day a "Whozit" picture of a Boston Bees or Boston Red Sox ball player will be printed in the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American until 24 have appeared. Give the correct name of the ball player shown in the picture.

2. Only one set of answers can be submitted by any one person but each member of a family may enter, and no family will be entitled to win more than one prize.

3. Hold all answers until you have the completed set of 24. DO NOT SEND IN INDIVIDUAL PICTURES.

4. This contest is open to all bona fide New England residents except employes of the New England Newspaper Publishing Company and other Hearst enterprises and members of their families or relatives.

5. Send your entry by first class mail or bring it to: Baseball Whozit Contest Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., P. O. Box 866. All entries must bear sufficient postage to be considered.

6. All solutions must be accompanied by a letter of not more than 50 words on: Who Is My Favorite Ball Player on the Boston Teams and Why? Letters will be considered only in the event of a tie in solving these pictures. Entries must be in the office of the editor or postmarked not later than midnight, TEN days after the last picture is printed.

7. A committee of judges appointed by the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American will select the winners in the contest. A contestant by sending a set of solutions, indicates acceptance of these Rules and Conditions and agrees that the decision of the judges is final and further agrees that there can be no appeal from the judges decisions. No entries can be returned. All entries become the property of the Boston Daily Record and Boston Evening American.

8. Awards will be paid to the persons sending in the nearest correctly solved complete set of pictures. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In the event of a tie between or among two or more contestants for any of the prizes the prize or prizes won in order will be combined to a lump sum and then evenly distributed among those tying.

9. Contestants are not required to purchase these newspapers in order to compete. Copies of these newspapers on file in the public libraries may be consulted instead.

GET WHOZIT PICTURE NO. 28 IN TUESDAY'S DAILY RECORD

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

BOOKMAKERS have been barred at Suffolk Downs . . . There has been a drop in the handle at the East Boston track, and it was felt that this might be partly due to the fact bookmakers were permitted to watch the races . . .

Many of the horsemen like to place their money with bookmakers as they believe that in this way they keep the odds up . . . As a matter of practice, many of the bigger bookmakers pour thousands of dollars through the mutuel machines . . . Even bookmakers don't like to be carrying too much money on a horse that looks as if he has a good chance to win.

One bookmaker told me he laid off $800 through the machines on Reminding in the eighth race at Suffolk Downs on Saturday . . . He said he had so much confidence in the man who made the wager with him that he also bet $250 of his own money on Reminding . . . Increasing the mutuel handle on this race by $1050 . . . The management of many tracks feel that bookmakers are in a competing business, and that in the long run they can do them only harm . . . The average bookmaker at a track becomes a bettor which brings him under the rule that holds that all who wager must go clean.

I liked Thanksgiving until he became a 3-to-5 shot . . . I then put $2 on the Denemark entry of Blind Eagle and War Minstrel . . . I figured Blind Eagle had the better chance of winning, but was satisfied when War M'instrel won with Blind Eagle second for a $10 return . . . I ended up in left field with Flag Orland, while I tried to beat the favorite in the eighth race with Galloping and Great Blaze.

John T. Lambert tells me Suffolk Downs has made preparations to handle a record crowd tomorrow . . . The July Fourth holiday will bring thousands of visitors to Boston, and many of them will take in the races . . . With racing at Suffolk Downs and the Giants battling the Bees at National League Park, there should be new highs for sports crowds here.

War Clause in Boxing Contracts

WRITING FROM England to Bill Brennan, manager of Al McCoy, Armand Vincent says:

"I would like to feature Al McCoy against Tommy Farr in London in the Fall . . . I am prepared to send you contracts, but will have to insist upon a war clause . . . We are inserting such a clause in all of our boxing contracts . . . This clause gives the promoter the right to call off the match in the event of war.

"In France, athletic events are doing poorly as thousands of young men have already been called to the colors . . . When I was running my ski show in Paris late in March and early in April, 300,000 young men were called for service."

Vincent at one time promoted boxing in Montreal . . . While in New York last week, Joe Gould told me he is planning to have Jimmy Braddock box in London . . . The war scare has delayed Braddock's sailing . . . Ray Arcel, who trained Braddock for the latter's bouts with Max Baer and Joe Louis, considers the Jersey heavyweight the most courageous boxer in the world . . . Arcel informed me that the night Braddock defended his title against Louis he was suffering from severe attacks of arthritis . . . Braddock punched it out with Louis, scoring one knockdown before he was dropped to the canvas himself.

EDDIE MILLER

What about Miller?

I think Eddie Miller of the Bees received a raw deal when he wasn't selected to take part in the All-Star game in New York on July 11. Miller is the classiest shortstop in the National League.

I was glad Lou Fette was named to pitch on the National League club. He will help Gabby Hartnett's team to beat the American leaguers as they did last year.

J. T. HURLEY, Medford

Case of the Yanks

Everyone seems to be agreed that the Yanks are ruining baseball. I have got what I consider a swell idea. Why not put them in a league by themselves? Then everything would be great.

H. M., Somerville

Why Not Galento?

I think Boston boxing promoters could help revive the cauliflower industry here if they featured Tony Galento against Al McCoy or some other first class heavyweight. Galento is pretty hot since he tipped over Joe Louis, and I know the fans would turn out in large numbers to see him toss his fistic dynamite.

THOMAS WATSON, Melrose

Random Shots at Target

CHARLEY McLENNAN is getting his nominations in order for the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap that will be run at Suffolk Downs on July 12 . . . Challedon is the favorite in the early books of the expected starters.

Fire Commissioner William A. Riley, chairman of the "Old Timers" Day at Fenway Park on July 12, has secured Charley Nichols and Jack Ryan, famous as pitcher and catcher for the Boston Nationals at Walpole street in the 90's, as one of his batteries . . . Nichols has sent word to Manager Fred Mitchell that he will be delighted to toss a few pitches to his old battery mate . . . Nichols usually turned in more than 30 victories a year when at his best.

LOU GEHRIG TO QUIT BENCH AFTER COLLAPSING TWICE

By BILL GRIMES

Lou Gehrig is a sick man. He has collapsed twice on the Yankees' bench since his retirement, and it is very doubtful if he will ever put on a uniform again after tomorrow, which will be "Gehrig Day" at the Yanks' Stadium. A fitting farewell.

Connie Mack, too, is much sicker than the reports would have you believe. Connie admitted himself while he was here that his days as A's manager are probably at an end.

Over the week-end baseball staged the greatest comeback in the annals of the pastime . . . The national game developed into a cut and dried proposition in recent years . . . It has been very evident to fans that many ball players simply go through the motions . . .

The players blame the conditions on the authority that has been given umpires . . . It costs $25.00 to argue with the arbiter . . . And there are few spendthrifts among the present day players . . . So they accept poor decisions with nothing more than mild protests . . .

After receiving the umpires' reports of the fracases in Detroit and Philadelphia, during the White Sox-Tiger and the Bees-Phillies games, President Will Harridge of the American League and President Ford Frick of the National League are gunning for bear and will probably suspend Jimmy Dykes and Casey Stengel.

On Saturday, Hank Greenberg, who is one of the most peaceful players in the game, was fined $50 by Harridge for taking a punch at Joe Kuhel, whom he (Hank) declared tried to spike him while sliding back to first base . . . And, the chief executive of the younger league notified Dykes that he was displeased with the actions of certain White Sox players, who were guilty of using insulting and abusive language to opponents.

DYKES LEAVES SELF OPEN

Dykes left himself wide open to a fine by saying, "So, he thinks we talk too tough. Well, I'll settle that" . . . Then he sent all of his players with the exception of those who were playing in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader into the bullpen . . .

In the fourth inning, Eric McNair was tossed out of the game by Umpire Ed Rommell for tossing his hat in the air after he'd been called out on strikes . . . Dykes and Ted Lyons horned into the argument and they were also banished.

Early this morning, Ford Frick had a call in for Casey Stengel and it looks like Ol' Case will be off the Bees' bench tomorrow, during the twin bill with the Giants . . . A few weeks ago, Manager Stengel saw his ball club ruined when Dick Bartel of the Cubs threw a football block at Tony Cuccinello and the Bees' second sacker was seriously injured . . . Merrill May, the Phillies' third baseman, ran right through Eddie Miller, in the first game yesterday and the Bees' shortstop was badly shaken up . . .

HANGING UP Yankee uniform for good will be Lou Gehrig in a day or two, Bill Grimes reveals today. Gehrig, forced from play by infantile, is unable even to stay on the bench, says Grimes.

Naturally Casey saw red when May ran over Miller . . . The Bees are just beginning to click after a long slump . . . Stengel knew that if Miller was forced out of the lineup his club would do another nose dive . . .

So, Charles Dillon Stengel walked out to where "Doc" May was trying to bring Miller to and let fly with his best Sunday right hand . . . May hit the deck . . . Stengel was told to call it a day . . .

Just let a few more feuds such as developed in Detroit and Philadelphia crop up and there will not be any need to spend $100,000 to install lights for night baseball . . . The Tigers will pack Comiskey Park on their next visit to the Windy City and the Phillies will be a much better drawing card when they come to National League Field.

Lefty Grove will have two guests with him on this trip that the Red Sox start today . . . He has invited his son Bobby and Eddie Kenney, who captained the championship Winchester High School nine this spring, to make the trip . . . Bobby and Eddie will see all of the sights including the world's fa- . . .

OSTERMUELLER CLICKS

After a decade and a half in minors and American League, Fritz Ostermueller is just now beginning to learn how to pitch . . . He was a "chucker" until last year but on Saturday he hurled a very heady game against the Yankees, to win his fourth straight . . .

Lou Gehrig is a sick man . . . He is very unsteady and on two occasions has collapsed on the Yankee bench . . . It is very doubtful if Lou will don a uniform again after tomorrow, which will be Gehrig Day at the Yankee Stadium . . .

Connie Mack is much sicker than the reports indicate . . . Connie realizes that his chances of continuing as manager of the Athletics are very slim . . . In fact, he has a suspicion that he is through with baseball . . .

Topsfield Races Draw Auto Stars

Three auto drivers from New York state and another from New Jersey arrive today for the Independence Day big car classic over the 20-mile route at the Topsfield Fair Grounds.

Jerry May of Schenectady, Lee Allen of Troy and Charlie Reynolds of Albany are the three from the Empire State, while Joe Verberly of Bound Brook, N. J., recent winner at Topsfield, is the other.

TAUNTON FORM

By THE RABBIT

TAUNTON, July 3—The night before the holiday card at the Taunton dog track finds the hot boxes in the eighth loaded with speed.

Once again Mad Money will in all probability go a favorite. But I look to see Lucky Star beat this one and I consider him the best betting proposition on the bill.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
(First Half Daily Double)

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
2	Lady T'mara	3-1	59	G. H. Rogers
8	The Tangler	4-1	58	Pat Gavan
6	Quiz	4-1	60	C. A. Rhodes
4	Don Lash	6-1	64	Oscar Dahlberg
7	Knander	8-1	56	M. J. Gavan
3	Tipsy	10-1	60	Paul Boone
1	Who's Who	10-1	66	Jack Adams
9	My Home B.	12-1	64	Tom Baird

In a tight fit here LADY TAMARA figures to just about head THE TANGLER to the wire. QUIZ should be in the money.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
(Second Half Daily Double)

	FAME, MACB.		MISS RUTH E.
1	Pame	3-1	65 Tom Baird
2	Mach	3-1	63 Paul Boone
3	Miss Ruth E.	4-1	59 M. J. Gavan
9	Upside Ch	6-1	58 Ted Lippold
6	Glamorous G.	8-1	58 Art Wilson
7	Rio Grand	10-1	68 Jess Williams
4	Side Wheeler	10-1	62 Ernest Rhine
8	Cutlet Mark	12-1	58 G. H. Rogers

All FAME need do here is decide to run to take it all. MACK could upset, while MISS RUTH E. is always dangerous.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE

	MY TONE, IRVIN ANDREW, BRIGHT BALLAD
6	My Tone	3-1	65 Ev. Harmon
1	Irvin Andrew	4-1	60½ M. T. Dubiel
7	Bright Ballad	4-1	60 Tom Cook
3	Brook	5-1	58 H. Bryant
2	Fatsy Red	8-1	58 F. L. Runtz
8	Reahonic Bill	10-1	60 Otto Wohlauf
4	Krystal L.	10-1	72 M. J. Gavan
5	Go Further	12-1	67 Jack Adams

HY-TONE has been running well but having a trifle of bad luck and with a break, figures best here. IRVIN ANDREW has class and can come with BRIGHT BALLAD in the money.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

	PEGGY ACTOR, JUBILANT, BRUISER
5	Peggy's Actor	3-1	69 Fred Paterno
7	Jubilant	4-1	67½ M. O. Sparks
2	Bruiser	4-1	65 Cedar Pt. Ken.
1	Ramsinghard	6-1	67 Ernest Rhine
8	Coodie G. B.	8-1	70 J. L. Ayotte
6	Unaded Ace	10-1	51 Jack Adams
4	Is. Tallonia	10-1	61 G. Lippold, Jr.
3	Tony Boy	12-1	63½ Fred Street

PEGGY ACTOR'S last was an improvement and enough to make her win here with JUBILANT heading BRUISER to the wire for the second money.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE

	COURT SCENE, SILVER WEB, TOP TRAFFIC
6	Court Scene	3-1	69 Pat Gavan
8	Silver Web	4-1	61 M. C. Sparks
4	Top Traffic	4-1	48 Frank Lane
1	Installment	6-1	71 Seekonk Ken.
7	Donegal's P.	8-1	53 M. J. Gavan
5	Gen. Franco	10-1	70 Geo. Deragon
3	Nolens	10-1	61 Paul Boone
2	Temporary	12-1	64 F. B. Stutz

COURT SCENE has the class to win here though off its last SILVER WEB must be dangerous. TOP TRAFFIC should be in the money.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

	LION'S CUB, ROBERT RIPLEY, LITTLE MITT
7	Lion's Cub	5-1	70 Fred Paterno
1	Robt. Ripley	6-1	68½ W. L. Bryant
2	Little Mitt	6-1	62 F. C. Morrison
3	Fleet Officer	6-1	61 Ernest Rhine
5	Criminal Ct.	8-1	63 Seekonk Ken.
4	Pinto Pete	10-1	61 Paul Boone
8	Jim J.	10-1	62 J. Highhouse
6	Twitter	12-1	48 Frank Lane

LION'S CUB, a giant of a dog, should bust out of the box with a rush to take it to the first on top. ROBERT RIPLEY will be forcing with LITTLE MITT ever dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

	LUCKY'S LUCKY, GILBY'S GIN SWEET TWISTER
3	Lucky's Lucky	3-1	Paul Boone
5	Gilby's Gin	4-1	64 Jack Adams
8	Sweet Tw'ster	4-1	51½ G. Lippold, Jr.
6	Margo Clark	6-1	62 M. T. Dubiel
7	Justa Go By	8-1	71 Fred Street
1	Cool Caress	10-1	56 C. A. Rhodes
4	Moonglobal	10-1	64 Cedar Pt. Ken.
2	Black Cash	12-1	57 Ted Lippold

LUCKY'S LUCKY is well enough placed to score here with GILBY'S GIN, out of the middle box, still able to do the forcing. SWEET TWISTER must be considered.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

	LUCKY SIR MAD MONEY MORDAUNT'S CHUM
1	Lucky Sir	3-1	60 J. B. Haire
6	Mad Money	4-1	59½ Ben Neal, Jr.
3	M'daunt's Ch.	4-1	63½ Pat Conway
5	Muiton Brot.	6-1	66 Geo. Deragon
8	Side Wind	8-1	72 J. Williams
4	Cy'lrade C.	10-1	60 C. A. Rhodes
2	Big Vinegar	10-1	70 J. Highhouse
7	H'dsome Pat	12-1	57 O and B Ken.

LUCKY SIR has his work cut out for him but an alert break meant all the money. MAD MONEY is the one to beat, with MORDAUNT'S CHUM in the money.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE

	ALMA DARLING, CRUSADER CARESS, PERNA
3	Alma Darling	5-1	55 M. J. Gavan
6	Crusader C.	6-1	64 C. A. Rhodes
5	Perna	6-1	58½ W. L. Bryant
8	Play-ide G.	8-1	55½ Clyde Kno.
1	Fancy Jim	8-1	71 J. L. Ayotte
7	Hurry Bo	10-1	59 Fred Street
2	Greystick	10-1	61 M. C. Sparks
4	Kans. Cutlet	12-1	58 J. B. Haire

ALMA DARLING has the foot to score here with CRUSADER CARESS a threat. PERNA should be in the money.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

	SO LUCKY, ROWDY GOER, VIRGINIA D.
8	So Lucky	3-1	56 Ben Neal, Jr.
1	Rowdy Goer	4-1	65 Fred Street
3	Virginia D.	5-1	55 Frank Lane
2	Tim's Court	6-1	52 L. M. K'patrick
7	Tease	8-1	52 Tom Baird
5	Nancy Red	10-1	72 Geo. Deragon
6	Quick Lena	10-1	51 G. Lippold, Jr.
4	Miss Hicks	12-1	56 J. Highhouse

SO LUCKY romped from the outside box in the last and can repeat. ROWDY GOER likes the rail. VIRGINIA D. has plenty of speed all the way.

Swifty SAYS:

"I'm getting a bit worried about that fast little YESTERDAY. Did you see him fly the other night? He sneaked up on me so fast I got nearved. His time was 31.3 which is as good as Rural Rube for the 5-16s. I gotta watch him from now on."

Schmeling Set On U. S. Bout

STUTTGART, Germany, July 3 (INS)—Possibility that Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, would attempt another comeback in American rings, was foreseen today as a result of his quick knockout over Adolph Heuser, European titleholder, here before 70,000 spectators.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, the bout lasted exactly 47 seconds, with Heuser flattened by a smashing right hand punch to the chin. It was the only real blow landed.

The victory retrieved for Schmeling some of the prestige he lost when he was knocked out by Joe Louis at New York, after having previously knocked out the Negro before he had won the heavyweight championship, and led to the belief that Schmeling would continue fighting.

Big League Stars

By the Associated Press

Buddy Lewis and Johnny Welaj, Senators—Former made unassisted double play with bases loaded and Athletics leading in ninth, then hit homer with one on to win first game of doubleheader; latter got four hits to drive in six runs to lead way to victory in nightcap.

Tommy Bridges, Tigers—Four-hit pitching strapped White Sox for his 11th win of season.

Paul Derringer, Reds, and Jim Gleeson, Cubs—Former held Chicago to six hits in winning opener, while Gleeson singled with bases loaded in ninth inning of second game to give Cubs a split.

Howard Mills, Brown, and Mel Harder, Indians—Each hurled five-hit game to divide doubleheader.

Al Lopez and Ed Miller, Bees—Lopez hit home run with bases loaded for margin of victory in first game, and Miller hit for circuit with two on to break up tie in second.

Bob Grove and Ted Williams, Red Sox, and Bill Dickey, Yankees—Grove muffled Yankees on six hits, and Williams hit homer with two on in seventh inning of first game; Dickey's home run with two on was big blast of New York's second game bombardment.

Lukе Hamlin, Dodgers, and Harry Danning, Giants—Former stopped Giants on six-hit pitching in first game, while latter hit homer in eighth inning to break tie and win second game.

Arky Vaughan and Elbie Fletcher, Pirates—Former hit triple and two singles to bat in three runs in leading triumphant opening game attack, while Fletcher hit homer with bases loaded in sixth inning to break up second game.
